FOREWORD

Since its first publication in 1894, the purpose of the POT POURRI has been the same: to present a record of life on the Hill. Although the basic pattern has not been changed, the printing method was changed from the conventional Letterpress process to the new Offset Lithography. The Editors do not feel that this change is necessarily an improvement, but they are convinced that it will eventually result in a publication of higher quality.

SENIORS

CLASS OFFICERS

Adkins, Reed, Ingersoll, Aysque

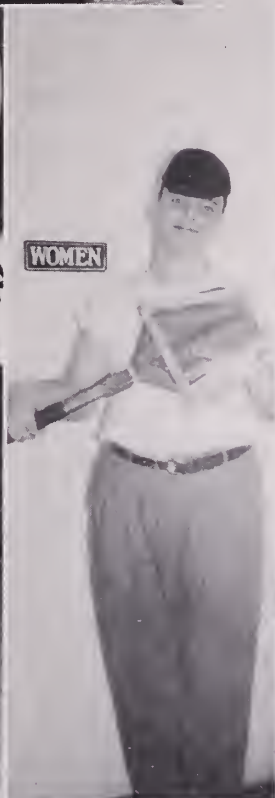

The Class of 1951 was a class that witnessed and took part in great transitions. During its second year on the Hill, a new headmaster was inaugurated. The retirement of Dr. Fuess and his succession by Mr. Kemper marked the end of an era at Andover. Sweeping changes in student government were made in the four years. From a total oligarchy, composed of only the Student Council, a scheme for fairer representation was created. A more directly elected Student Congress was to supplement the Council in the performance of its duties. In 1951, the last remnants of the governmental stranglehold possessed by the Council were destroyed. The account of the framing of the new Constitution appears elsewhere in this book. Thus we see that in a brief three year period, student government was taken out of the hands of the few and put under the direct control of the individual.

In its four year stay at Andover, the Class of 1951 changed in its attitude and outlook. This change was well summarized by Mr. Kemper in his Commencement address. He noted that for its first three years the class followed the pattern set by so many of its predecessors. This pattern can be expressed by the single word conformity. The thing to do was to conform to the wishes of the majority. The "gentleman's C" became the goal of too many, and one's greatest desire in life was to be regarded by "the boys" as a rock. However, in the Senior year, there came a general awakening. The majority came to realize that originality was not a synonym for queerness. The changes made in government gave evidence of this change in attitude.

The Class of 1951 was distinguished by a uniform high quality both in the classroom and on the playing field. For most classes, these facts would form the basis of this article, but the position in which the Class of 1951 found itself, a class unique in the history of the School, makes the subordination of these items necessary.

COMMENCEMENT

Ted Crowther's interpretation of Mr. Whitney at the class dinner marked the point where you stopped worrying about your grades, even though you didn't get your

History results until next morning. Saturday started out with Mr. Adriance's explanations of the problems of admission followed by the confusion of class reunions. At noon, after the pompous dedication of the gym, you had to listen to the bells while waiting to file into the cage for lunch. The evening was in the bag.

Even Bob Leete's breakfast tasted different that June 10. Or perhaps it was that the kids with visored caps and the large aerial photograph made the Beany look the way it does in catalogues. You can't recall what you did until 10:30. Having stood around between Morse and Pearson for a while, the column set off toward the Chapel. While trying to walk on the string and to keep in step, you were glad this was the last time you would hear the bell-tower. When you followed the Faculty and Trustees in and saw all eyes looking you over, you felt the whole thing was perhaps a trifle silly. You sat down hoping the program would run smoothly and quickly.

Soon you were carried away when Dr. Fuess recalled the days when Henry L. Stimson was president of the Trustees. After the dedication of the plaque and the presentation of scholastic awards, you again became the center of attention. You got up, shook hands with Mr. Kemper, and sat down again. Remember his parting remark?

Then came that mad rush for your diploma.
You finally found yours in the wrong

pile and then still had to sign for it!
Maybe you were on your way home fifteen minutes later, but your parents probably insisted that the family go to the reception at Mr. Kemper's because everybody else seemed to be going there. After having fumbled the introduction, you directed your parents to one of the buffet-counters. Balancing a plate of chicken in one hand and a glass of pink lemonade in the other, you found a table. Your room-mate showed up and introduced your parents to his. When you went back for "seconds," you ran across several guys who patted you on the back and wished you luck. You said goodbye to your housemaster, and then decided to introduce him to the folks. On your way back to the car your brother said he might like to have him in class next year. It'll be nice to visit your brother—as an "olgrad"

UNDERCLASSMIEN

UPPER MIDLERS

CLASS OFFICERS
Crosby, Kirkham, Payne, Fortmiller

As in our Lower year, this class of '52 continues to be unique. Non-conformity seems to be our ideal. Certain actions during the year were carried out to the extreme, producing both good and bad effects.

When we arrived back at School, we found several of our old classmates missing. Most noticeable was the gap left by big, affable "Moose" Pulfer. A group of his closest friends decided to dedicate September 30, as Moose Memorial Day, and on that day, the Upper class, attired in blue suits, mourned the loss of their friend. At 1:30, about one hundred mourners convened to begin the solemn funeral march up to the football field. The pallbearers bore a casket labelled "Moose" at the head of the procession heading for Brother's Field, where the ceremonies were held.

We did acquire one black mark on our record. Before the Exeter game, the usual excitement prevailed, and this class, inspired by either school spirit or rambunctiousness, stepped out of line and temporarily caused the faculty quite some trouble. As punishment, we were deprived of our student government representatives for a term, because, as our headmaster put it, they were unable to lead when leadership was necessary.

Our Prom Committee of Anderson, Fortmiller, Hutchins, Smith and Filides was one of the most energetic ever seen at Andover. Their advertising schemes, such as obtaining an autographed picture of Rose LaRose, were ingenious enough to attract a huge gathering. The prom itself, fully lived up to the advertising.

Overshadowing our life at Andover, is the threat of a third world war, and consequently, we are all gravely concerned about our futures. Much forethought will be necessary on this subject during our remaining time at P. A. However serious the future may be, we will try not to let it interfere with the task at hand, that of making the class of '52 the best Senior class in history.

LOWER MIDDLELERS

CLASS OFFICERS
Capra, Ansin, Dickinson, Poppy

To the average Lower, as the B&M chugged into Andover, this fall, the countryside was the same, but he was different. No longer was he the lowest form of Andover growth. He had risen from his lowly status to become a full-fledged member of the School society.

The change was felt at once. Whereas the cry of, "Hey prep!", from the most innocent looking Upper would have sent him running for safety a year ago, this year's Lower even grew adventurous enough to try a little "prepping" of his own.

This year's Lower was a little more of an athlete than usual. When his All-Club or J.V. team wasn't playing, he could watch his classmates McLellan, Rodes and Higgins, the first all Lower half-back line in the Soccer Team's history. Al McLellan was given the signal honor of being elected co-captain for next year. There were several other Lowers on the Soccer squad and three on the Football squad. In the winter, Lowers were equally prominent on P.A. athletic teams. Two Lowers received varsity letters in Swimming, and one each in Basketball, Wrestling and Hockey. The Spring found two Lowers on the Golf and Lacrosse, and one on the Baseball team. In addition to these, P.A.'s, J.V. and All-Club teams were dominated by Lowers.

The tradition was once more upheld, this year, that the Lower class is the school's "rockiest." The School's fashion leaders from the cottages introduced straw hats to the Hill and showed the way to the rest of the School on every social occasion.

Through the Student Council and Student Congress representatives, efforts were made to gain increased privileges, such as smoking and late lights. Although unsuccessful, the requests were given serious consideration by the Faculty and may be granted to future classes.

Athletically, socially and in the field of student-faculty relationship, the Lower class has made itself a fine name.

JUNIORS

CLASS OFFICERS
Begien, Hudner, Starrett

Once again a group of scared, young Juniors were put under the watchful eyes of Messrs. Dunbar, Follansbee, Wilkie, and Velte.

During the first few days of school we were terrified of leaving our rooms for fear of being "prepped." This mild form of hazing soon died out, and we settled down to the business at hand.

We got our first chance to gain school-wide recognition on the J.V.B. football team. Nine of us won "triple A's," and three played a very important part in the victory over Exeter. We also had the annual Will Hall-Rockwell football game in the first term. The game was no contest, and Rockwell thoroughly crushed the "Willies."

The remaining weeks of the Fall Term sped by, and before we knew it we were home for an enjoyable three week vacation. Upon returning from our vacation, we were saddened by the loss of one of our members, the illustrious "Skipper" Rowe, who left P.A. for St. Georges.

We were again very active in sports during the Winter Term. We placed two men on the J.V. basketball, one on All-Club hockey, three on J.V. swimming, two on Varsity wrestling, and one on J.V. wrestling.

During the Winter Term we also experienced our first Prom Weekend. This was quite an occasion, for it enabled us to move out of our shells in Rockwell and Williams Hall into the wide open spaces of lower dorms i.e., Clement, Samaritan, etc.

By the time the Spring Term rolled around we were all really ready to face the world. A few of us even became "rocky" enough to go out and buy straw hats. We were given a chance to step into Andover social life by attending the Spring Prom. A large number of Juniors went, and had a terrific time.

Looking forward to next year, we expect victories over Exeter in all sports, high honors for everyone, and the best Lower Class in the history of Andover.

The Andover football team, somewhat handicapped by injuries, had a disappointing season in 1951. Though the Blue's record shows four wins and three defeats, the teams potential was never realized. The season ended on a sour 26-7 loss to Exeter.

During the season, the team was led by co-captains "Toto" Anderson, at right tackle and Bob Kimball, at left-half, both in their third year of varsity ball.

P.A. started slowly in its opener against Yale but won 12-0. Sparked by the running of Bob Doran and Doug Graham, and the performances of Harry Berkowitz, Captain Anderson and Doug Melville, Andover kept the ball consistently in Yale territory. The Blue opened the scoring in the second period when they marched 93 yards in three plays with the climax being a 40-yard pass from Graham to Berkowitz. The second half opened with Andover driving from its own 33 to the Yale one-foot line only to be held on fourth down. Yale then got off a poor kick to its own 26 and five plays later Melville sneaked over from the one-yard line to give Andover its second score.

The following week there was a different story as Andover played host to the Harvard Freshman. Overpowered by Harvard's hard driving backfield, Andover met with little offensive success. In the first half Harvard dominated by threatening consistently and by managing to keep the Blue in its own territory. On the third play of the second half Andover fumbled, and six plays later Harvard scored. The try for point was good and Harvard led 7-0. Early in the fourth quarter Harvard scored again, and even though the point was missed, this was the winning score. With but seconds remaining Andover started to move and in five plays scored on a 50-yard pass from Melville to Bill Duffy. Joe Wennik converted but Harvard froze the ball to gain a 13-7 decision.

In the third game Andover won an imposing 27-6 victory over Springfield '54. After Kimball had run the opening kickoff to the 34, P. A. moved 66 yards in 2 plays to score. Wennik kicked the first of his three points. Springfield took the next kickoff and in nine plays went over for their only score. On the next series of plays the Blue marched to their second score with Kimball going over and Wennik converting. Just before the half ended Andover capped another drive with Graham going nine yards for the score. The Blue was checked in the second half except for one brief series of eight plays when they drove to their final touchdown. Doran went over from the one-foot line. In the last period with the game on ice, coach Sorota emptied the P.A. bench.

In the next contest Andover displayed a powerful first half running attack to win over the Amherst Freshman 21-6. The Blue led by Graham, Melville and Dick Sanderson did all its scoring in the first half while the defensive team was holding Amherst without a first down. Graham scored first on an eight-yard run, Sanderson the second, and Duffy the third on a pass from Melville. Wennik added all three points.

An abundance of fumbles and pass interceptions sent the Blue down to its second defeat 6-0 before a spirited Williams team. The game, played in the morning at Williamstown, was an even harder one to lose since one score was made and then nullified by an offside.

On top of this the team missed three big scoring chances in the first half. Williams scored its only touchdown on a screen pass which covered 56 yards.

The following Saturday on a muddy field, Andover trounced Tufts 28-7. The Blue got off to an early lead with Morgan and Allenby scoring and Wennik converting twice. Late in the first period Tufts showed a flash as Meyer raced 58 yards for the only Jumbo score. In the second period Graham scored on a lateral from Roy Morgan and Wennik again converted. The third period was scoreless but in the fourth Andover came back to score once more, this time with Melville tallying on a 54-yard run. In this period the bench was cleared for the second time in the season.

With 5500 spectators packed into Brothers Field for the seventieth renewal of the A-E classic, the Redmen from the hills of New Hampshire invaded Andover and marched off with a 27-6 victory. Exeter did a complete job, leaving the Andover partisans with nothing to cheer about except for a brief period when Morgan finished a 40-yard drive with a sneak for Andover's only score. Exeter scored first on a pass from Captain Jim Armstrong to end Dalton. The completion seemed doubtful when Dalton fumbled the ball on the goal, but he pounced on it in the end zone to score. Just before half time Morgan made the only Andover tally of the day. The point was missed and Exeter led 7-6 at half time. Starting the second period Andover was handicapped seriously by the loss of Co-captains Kimball and Anderson, both of whom were injured in the second period. This half was the bleakest thirty minutes of football in the whole year. Andover couldn't move and Exeter scored three times.

Next year's team will contain many returning lettermen, though but one member of the 1950 first string remains. Andover will be led by three-year letterman Bob Cuthbertson and manager Ken Rider. With strong J.V.A. and J.V.B. squads this year, next year's team should have the depth to have a successful season.

With only four lettermen returning to the Cross Country fold at the start of the season, Captain Flanders and Coaches Hallowell and Gray were forced to consider the 1950 campaign as more or less a rebuilding year. The Blue lost all three meets in dual competition, but placed fourth in the New England Prep School Championships which included seven teams.

The first meet of the season was a dismal one for the Blue, as the first five runners for the Northeastern Freshmen crossed the finish line before the first Andover man. Three Northeastern men finished in a tie for first in an even thirteen minutes to establish a record for the two-and-a-half mile course. The following Saturday saw the Boston University Frosh take the measure of the Blue runners. Johnny Kelley of the Frosh broke the week-old record by covering the distance in 12:24. The final loss of the season came at the hands of the Tufts Frosh. A bright light on the season was that the squad improved in every meet.

The New Englands found Exeter the winner, with the Blue taking fourth place. Bill Flanders, "Dusty" Johnstone, Gordon Humphries, Bill Reeves, Dave Norris, Dennis Donegan and Ed Hurley finished in that order for Andover. Others to receive their letters at the annual banquet at the end of the Fall term, were Wolf Duerr, Lew Thatcher, Jim Pates, Doug Williams and Manager John Cobb. Hurley and Johnstone were elected co-captains, for next year. The manager is to be chosen in the Fall.

With the rebuilding done this year, the P.A. harriers of next season should have a successful campaign. According to the final individual standings, the second, third, fifth, sixth, seventh and ninth men are all returning to form the backbone of the squad.

The prospects for this year's Soccer Team at first seemed dubious as there were only five returning lettermen: Captain Billy Lee, Lock Rush, Mike Sides, Todd Terry, and Rick Fajardo. Mr. DiClementi brought Don Everett, John Horn and John Denison up from last year's J.V. Newcomers Paul Quackenbush, "Doc" Houk, Al McClellan, and Larry Higgins added much to the team's success, as did preps Kearny Strand and "Dusty" Rodes.

The season started successfully with a 2-0 victory over Tilton. Fajardo started the scoring with a second period goal over a non-aggressive Tilton team. Horn clinched the victory with a goal in the same period. The following Wednesday Andover edged Governor Dummer by a 1-0 score. Andover's only goal was made in the second period when "Doc" Houk headed oncin. Andover's next win was over an inferior Clarostat team, 3-0. Fajardo, Lee, and Sides supplied the scoring punch.

CAPTAIN BILL LEE

The team first showed its full strength in a hard-fought 3-1 victory over Medford. Fajardo opened the scoring, but Medford retaliated quickly to tie the score. Captain Billy Lee put the Blue ahead again in the third period; soon after, Rush headed in the final goal. Andover next thwarted a scrappy Tabor team 3-2 in a game marked by its roughness. Twice Tabor took the lead only to have Paul Quackenbush tie the game each time. The score remained two apiece until Mike Sides booted the winning tally late in the third period.

The Tufts game was a 6-0 rout in Andover's favor. The well-coordinated Blue offense completely overwhelmed an unimpressive Tufts backfield.

In a hard-fought game Deerfield shut out Andover for the Blue's first loss of the season. The game was very close with the margin of victory being two penalty kicks scored by Deerfield's co-captains.

The final victory was a 1-0 win over Belmont. The game was an expected letdown after the Deerfield game, but Fajardo saved the day with a third period goal.

Handicapped by showers and a wet ball, Andover was held to a 1-1 deadlock by Harvard. Fajardo scored Andover's goal in the third period, but soon after the score was tied by alumnus Bob Carrol. At the end of the two overtime periods the game was still tied.

With an impressive 7-1-1 record the team hopefully went up to Exeter. During the first half the Red completely outplayed the Blue. Morales of Exeter started the scoring with an excellent corner kick. Three minutes later Pete Kohler retaliated with a goal for Andover. In the second period Morales again scored, and P.E.A. retained the lead until the half.

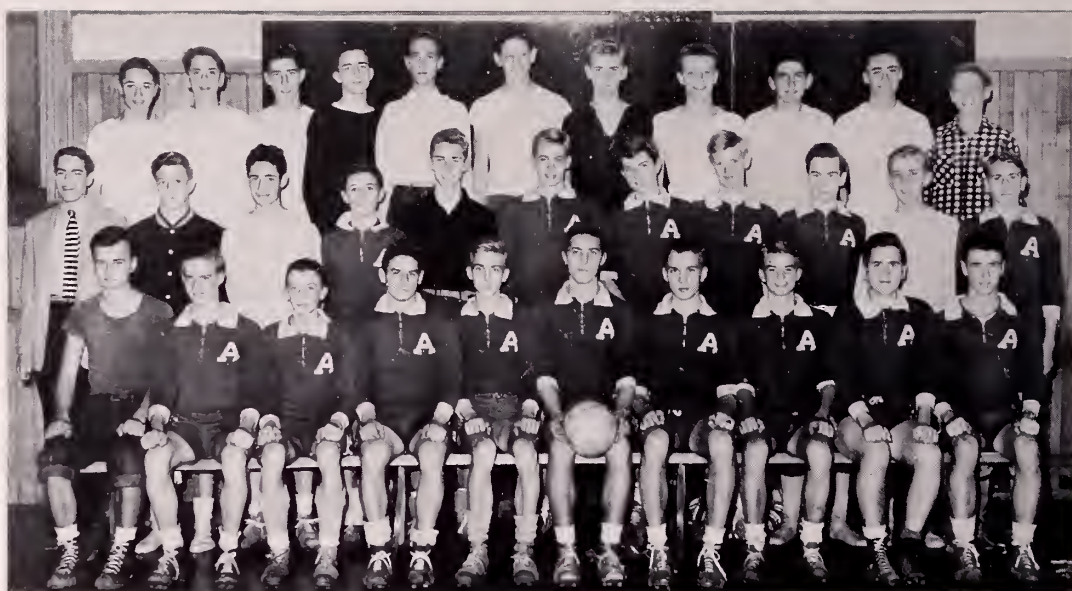

In the second half the Blue looked like a different team, fighting Exeter on even terms throughout. Mike Sides notched the tying goal to send the game into overtime. Both teams played their best but Sid Albrecht scored the deciding tally for Exeter late in the second overtime period. After the game Billy Lee presented for the first time the Jim Ryley trophy to Captain Toro of Exeter.

The post-season banquet saw Fajardo and McClellan elected next year's co-captains. Stew Sanders was chosen manager.

Captained by Bob Kimball the P.A. Basketball Team had one of its best seasons in several years as it won ten and lost only four. The success of this year's team can be traced not only to Kimball's leadership, but also to the playing of "preps" Kearney Strand, Doug Melville, Roger Morgan, and Bob O'Hearn, and of Paul Quackenbush from last year's J.V.

The season started off auspiciously with a win over Huntington 81-61. Scoring heavily in the third period the University of New Hampshire convincingly defeated P.A. in the second game. The score was close at half-time but the third period proved decisive. Melville was high scorer with 25 points.

In the next game Dartmouth's height was too much for Andover and the Green won 56-42. Again the third period ruined Andover. Ahead by two points at the half, Dartmouth pulled away to a ten point lead by the three quarter mark. Andover routed the Merrimac J.V., 72-41 in their next game. Melville had his best day of the year scoring 28 points; Strand also played well scoring 20 points.

The following game at Amherst, however, was a real battle. Behind four points at the midway mark, Andover came out for the second half and immediately tied up the game as Quackenbush and O'Hearn sank set shots. From there P.A. went on to win 48-46. Morgan a steady performer all year was high scorer with 15 points. The Yale Frosh then gave Andover, minus Strand, its first and only home court beating 59-44. In an attempt to make up for the loss of height, the P.A. men incurred too many fouls fighting for rebounds and thus handed Yale the game.

After defeating Tilton 49-48, P.A. hung up another impressive triumph 59-42 over the Tufts Frosh. The key third period was the turning point for the Blue. Quackenbush, Morgan, Strand, and Kimball again scored in quick succession.

Kimball was outstanding in this game and wound up high man along with Melville and Strand.

Mr. DiClemente's team climaxed the best season in years by overwhelming Exeter 77-42. Andover jumped away to a 12-11 first quarter lead. Sparked by Melville's 17 points the Blue iced the game in the second period as they out-scored Exeter 27-7 to increase their lead to 39-18. After the half Andover broke fast with Kimball, Strand, Morgan and Quackenbush scoring in quick succession. Sparked by Morgan, P.A. increased its lead to thirty points in this period. Exeter could do no better than match points in the final period.

The team received a great honor by being asked to play in the Eastern States Basketball Tourney at Glens Falls. Lack of practice ruined the Blue and they finished in seventh place. The star for the Blue was Roger Morgan who scored 22 points in Andover's only victory over St. Michaels of Brooklyn.

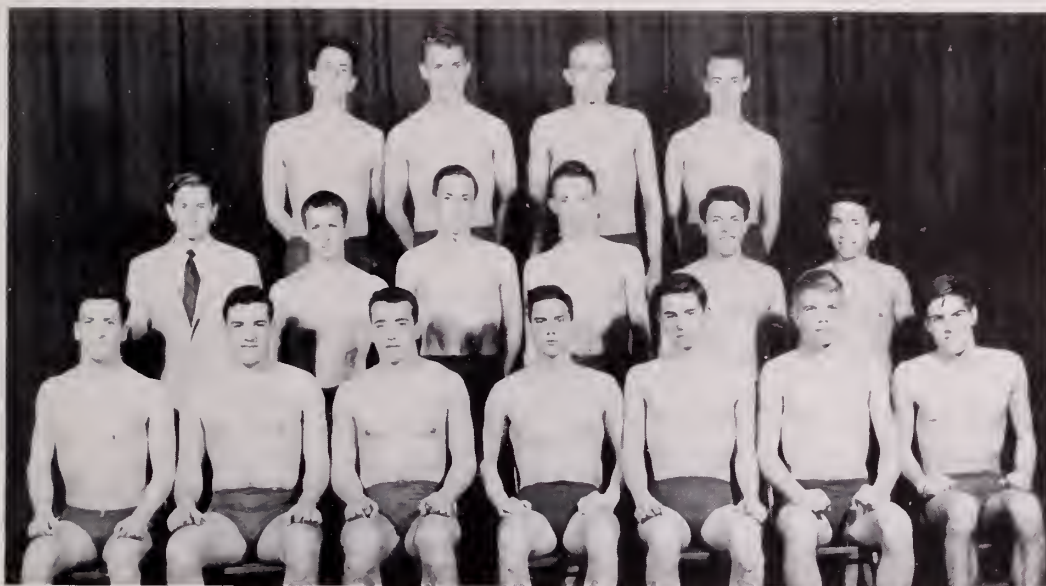

Pete Bartlett, a prep, was elected captain of next year's team and Dick Sagebiel was elected manager.

Although in some cases talent was lacking, spirit was not, and this year's Swimming Team finished with a creditable record of four wins, four losses, and a second place in the New England Inter-scholastics behind an invincible Exeter squad.

Captain Ken Raine, swimming his third year on varsity, led the team as first man in the fifty yard freestyle. He was a consistent winner but at the Inter-scholastics, he did his top time of 23.8, only to lose to Exeter's phenomenal, record-setting, Kerrey Donovan. Jim

Smith was second man throughout the year.

Tony duPont shared the individual spotlight with Raine during the season. DuPont swam his best race of the year against Exeter, doing the one hundred yard backstroke in 1:04.4. Locke Anderson, a prep, handled the second backstroke capably for the first few meets. Lower Tony Brockelman took over when Anderson switched to the individual medley, and Bill Stevens swam against Exeter.

In the 100-yard breaststroke, Zeke Grossmann showed exceptional improvement, swimming several 1:09 races as the season closed. Mike Clark swam as second man most of the year, with Tony Mayer moving up for the Exeter meet when Grossmann became ill.

The 100-yard freestyle saw a variety of men used. Captain-elect Fred Henderson did 56.0 against Portland, but was forced out against Exeter because of illness. Pete Stern, Don Kern, and promising upper John Starkweather also saw considerable service. Mark Candee led the 200-yard freestylers, doing 2:09.7 for his best time at Dartmouth. Jack Dinsmoor and Lower Tony Brockelman helped make this one of the team's stronger events.

Locke Anderson and Stu Braun battled it out for 1-2 positions in the gruelling individual medley. Anderson came in second and Braun third against Exeter, and in his third race of the day, Anderson took a third at the Interscholastics.

Diving was a weak point in the pre-season drills, but Jerry Ward and Lower Tony Lopez came along so fast that things were well in hand by the middle of the season.

The 150 medley relay was staffed by duPont, Grossmann, and either Raine, Stern, or Starkweather, depending on the opposing team's strength. The first combination did 1:23, only .2 of a second off the meet record, at Exeter. In the 200 freestyle relay, Raine, Smith, Kern, and Henderson narrowly missed the school record of 1:38.2 several times. Stern and Tuck filled in occasionally.

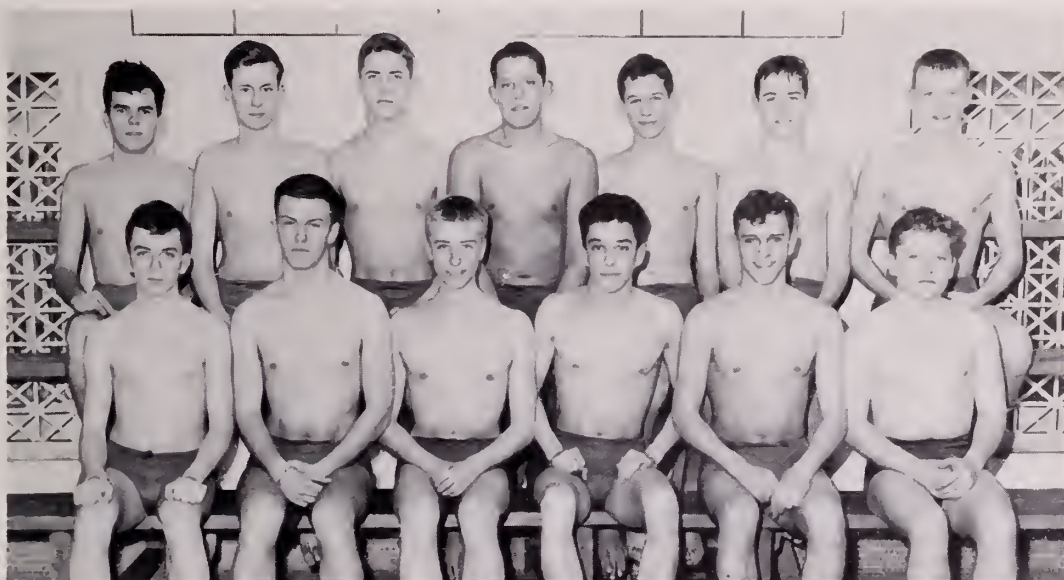

The team opened the season by swamp-ing Huntington 61-14, and reached an early peak in downing Portland High, New England High School champs, 44-31. Several bad breaks caused a 37-38 loss to Dartmouth, but a weak Gardner High was beaten 56-14. Powerful Harvard and Yale squads defeated the Blue, but Deerfield went down 45-30. Finally, with Smith, Henderson, and Grossmann out, the team lost to perhaps an all time high prep school squad from Exeter 48-27, and took second behind Exeter again at the Interscholastics.

Fred Henderson and Bob Page were elected to replace Captain Raine and Manager Bob Kipka, respectively.

The Lawrenceville Invitation Hockey Tournament Consolation Cup, new $75,000 Sumner Smith artificial rink, and the decisive 5-0 whitewash of Exeter highlighted a successful and unprecedented '50-'51 Andover hockey season.

Again for the second year in a row, the Blue started off the season capturing the consolation cup at the Lawrenceville

Tournament, January 2. Losing to the ultimate tournament victors, Northwood, 3-1 in the opener, Andover came back to defeat the hosts, Lawrenceville 3-2, and then clinched the cup with a win over Choate, 5-3. George Scragg scored four of the total nine goals in the three game series. Throughout the tournament Bill Van Alstyne blocked more than his share of goals with a total of fifty-five saves.

Belmont Hill became the first school to win on the new rink with a 5-2 victory. Pat Pratt and Scragg, both assisted by Bill Duffy, tied up the score in the second period, but the more experienced Belmont team scored again and again and drew the decision by a comfortable margin.

On the road, P.A. broke into the victory column gaining a 3-2 triumph over the University of New Hampshire. Upson Scragg and Pratt accounted for the goals in this close game.

After losing to Harvard and Medford, P.A. won from Hebron and New Hampton. Seven penalties marred a rugged game with St. Pauls in the next game and, despite Van Alstyne's outstanding goal tending, the Andover aggregate lost 2-0. A phenomenal 11-1 margin over Brewster tied up the schedule at 4 and 4.

In the first win over Exeter since 1947, Andover trounced their traditional rivals 5-0 at the official dedication of the Sumner Smith Hockey rink. Upson scored after 11½ minutes. Blasting Exeter's goal, Captain George Rider, Duffy, Pratt, and Scragg scored in the second period. Exeter rallied in the final period by keeping the Blue scoreless but could not get their attack going enough to score on Bill Van Alstyne who recorded his first shut-out of the year.

The Blue defeated Middlesex the next game, 7-3. The goals were well scattered among the first two lines. The following contest was the roughest of the winter; Andover and Central Catholic tied at 3-3 although a seven and one-half minute overtime was played. In the final game of the season on February 27, Belmont Hill whipped a last minute shot past Van Alstyne to come out victorious, 1-0.

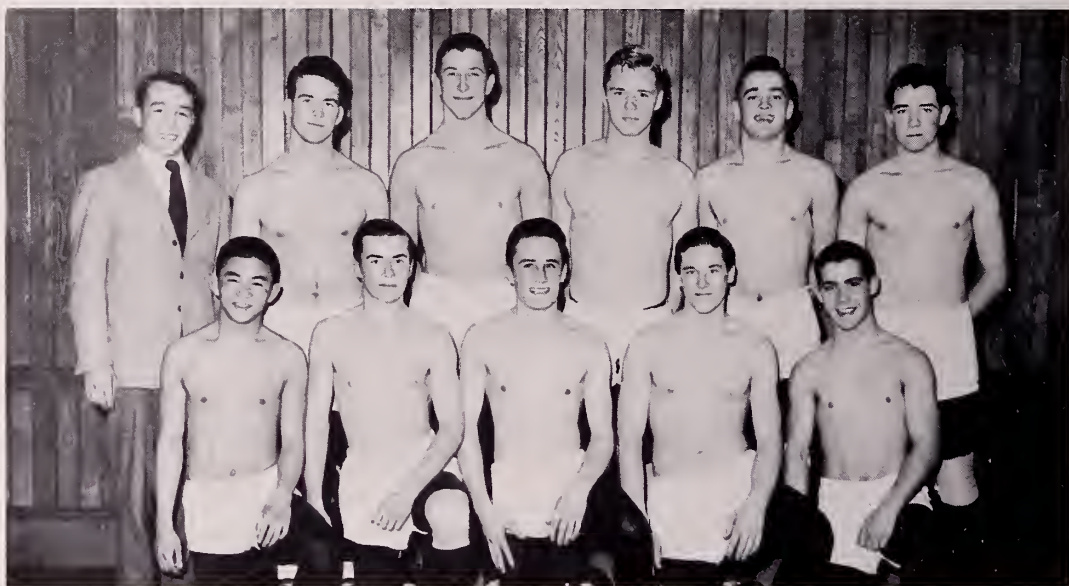

An unusual feature for next year is the election of co-captains and co-managers. High scorer of the P.A. team, George Scragg, and hard hitting defenseman, Abner Oakes, will take over the co-captainship, while Mike Filides and Harris Wilson will share the managing duties. Bill Van Alstyne was awarded the Sumner Smith trophy for the most valuable player of the team.

The Wrestling Team's record of 4 wins and 5 defeats is a creditable one when the many difficulties which arose before and during the season are considered. The loss of co-captain Ed Ackerson was the first blow to the team's strength. Wrestling Brown for the first time in a pre-Christmas match, the team had had hardly a week of training. In the first meet of the winter term, with Harvard J.V., the Blue showed its real strength. The matmen followed up this victory with an even better one, by beating

Boston University 25-11. The Milton match was as much of a thriller as was expected, but the results were heartbreaking. The meet was lost by a five-minute time advantage. The team was slightly recompensed when it shut out Tabor a week later. Beaten by a tough Springfield team, the wrestlers came through with a 31-3 victory over Tufts. The Harvard Frosh, with Lombardi, a P.A. alumnus, proved too strong for Coach Pieters' men, and won 21-5.

exciting and best wrestled meet of the year, with Exeter winning 19-8. Andover scored on decisions by Yatsu and Anderson and a tie by Acker. All other matches were close, however, and the Niemand—Morris and Lasley — George matches were two of the year's best.

Captain Tim Anderson was slowed up at the beginning of the season by a football injury, but was quickly back in the lineup and had a good season nevertheless. Out of seven matches, Tim won five, four of them by pins, in the B. U., Milton, Tabor and Tufts meets. Anderson won his Exeter meet by a decision.

Bob Jackson won four out of his seven matches this year. He occupied the 177-pound position most of the season, but in the Exeter and Harvard meets, he moved down to the 167-pound class, with Jerry Lasley taking over for him at 177.

In the 147-pound class, Pete Acker saw action in every meet of the season. Pete had five falls to his credit, two decisions, one loss, and one tie, in the Exeter meet. He was high scorer with thirty-three points.

"Doc" Castle and Pierce Bullen each saw action during the season in the 130-pound position. In the Tabor meet, Bullen pinned his man in 32 seconds, the fastest pin of the season.

Frank Yatsu wrestled in the 123-pound class most of the season. Frank won his Exeter match, one of the best matches in that meet, by a decision.

Arno Niemand, captain of next year's team, started out in the 130-pound class, but changed after two meets to the 137. He won five matches and pinned his man in three of them.

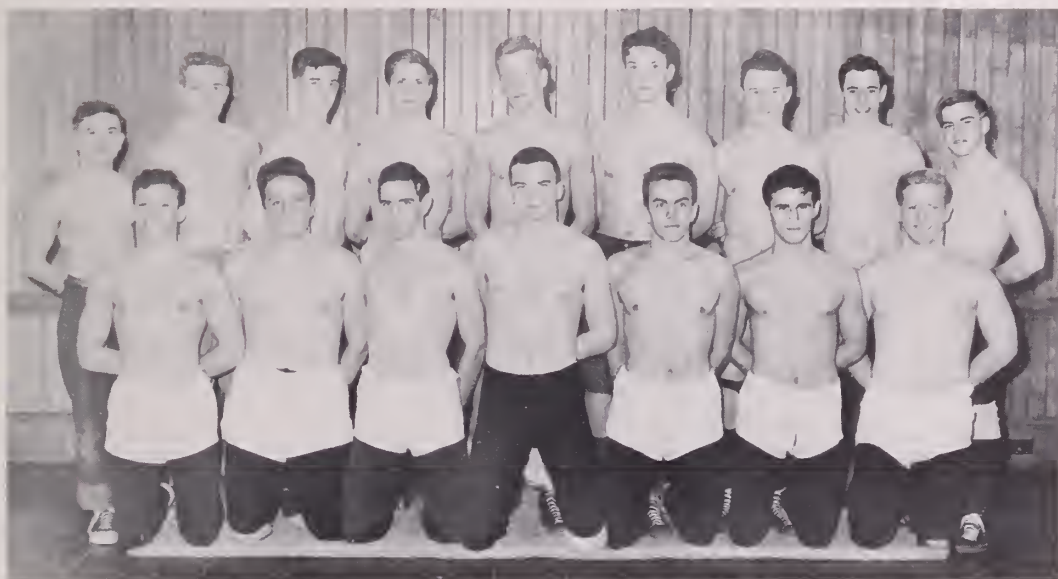

Paul Sawyer held top position in the 157-pound class most of the season. He and Fred Felton, the team's only Lower, will be back next year with Bullen to help Captain-elect Niemand lead the Blue.

Jackson and Yatsu also entered the post-season New England A.A.U. Wrestling Championships at Quincy, Mass., on March 17. Jackson lost a first round pin, while Yatsu survived the first round only to lose his second match (both on the same day), to the strongest opposition in New England.

The Winter Track Team, captained by Bob Doran and Bill Flanders, started the season impressively enough but faltered towards the end to finish with a 6-3 record.

In early December the Blue team journeyed to Tufts. Andover had little trouble winning 63-50 as Graham took two firsts in the hurdles and Franz placed second behind Alleyne in the 40 and in the 300. After the Christmas vacation, Andover won three consecutive meets.

In swamping Brown 56½-42½, top performances were Graham's 5.4 seconds in the hurdles equaling the cage record, and Andover's sweep in the dash. Other winners were Weiker in the weight, at 50'11½'', Doran in the shot, at 47'11½'', and Rosebaum in the broad jump, at 19'6''.

The following Saturday, the Blue again defeated Tufts, this time 72-26. Doran, Flanders, Hayes, and Samaschin took firsts to lead the team to victory.

Rolling over Northeastern  $57\frac{1}{2}$ - $23\frac{1}{2}$ , the Blue was at its best to date, with Graham equaling the cage record for the  $3'6''$  hurdles, at 5.6 seconds, and Moe and Franz finishing first and second in the 40-yard dash. Andover swept the shot, as Doran led Selig and James. Also, Hayes took the high jump at  $5'8''$  while Sutton tied with Samaschin for first in the pole vault.

Sorota's forces took a rest the following Saturday as Andover's relay team, composed of Franz, Goodman, Moe, and Flanders, journeyed to the B.A.A.'s to meet Exeter. In the race for only the first lap, Andover lost to Exeter by about ten yards, as the Red took the event in 3:34.3.

After the B.A.A.'s, Andover hit the losing trail for the first time, as they lost two meets in one week, both by very close scores. Sorota's crew turned in one of their best performances of the season against Harvard, only to lose by the heart-breaking score of 50-48. Highlight of the meet was Moe's 4.6 in the 40-yard dash, once again tying the cage record. On the following Wednesday, a team way off stride lost to Dartmouth by a score of 53-47. Here, little can be said for the Blue, except for the sweep in the dash and Franz's 34.4 in the 300.

Back in stride again, the Blue captured its third straight team title in the New England Interscholastics. Scoring in every event, Andover amassed 48 points to runner-up Huntington's 25. Goodman, Reno, Schaff, and King broke the relay record held by last year's team by .8 second, covering the distance in 2:25.2. Also of note, Graham, Kirkham, and Wright pooled their efforts in the hurdles to take 11 out of 15 possible points. Andover had no other winners but the team garnered more than enough points with consistent seconds and thirds to win the meet.

The following Saturday a hopeful Blue squad journeyed to Exeter only to come out on the disappointing end of a 47-34 count. Decidedly the underdog, Andover started out to what seemed might be an upset as Bob Doran set an A-E record by putting the shot  $53'7''$ , while Graham was tying the A-E hurdle record, at 5.9. Then Moe and Franz proceeded to place one, two in the dash and Kohler, finishing strong, took the 1000 in 2:25.3. Here Andover led 27-18 but sweeps by Exeter in the pole vault and 600 sunk the Blue, and Exeter won going away 47-34.

In a meet coming after the term had closed, a 15-man squad traveled to the Bowdoin Relays and came home with the Prep School title. Andover amassed 36 points to runner-up Newman Prep's 18. Outstanding man for Andover was Al Moe as he won both the 40 and the 300 and then anchored Andover's winning relay team. Moe was Andover's only winner but the necessary points were picked up through many seconds and thirds.

At the annual Winter Track banquet, letters were awarded to 27 men, and Pete Kohler and George Stoddart were elected co-captains of next year's team. These two, together with Bob Rosebaun, Jim Samaschin, Ed Selig, Bob Markert and Waddy Kirkham, will make up the nucleus of next year's squad.

SKIING

Martin, McCaskill, deLahunta (Captain), Findlay, Gilland, Hoyt

The P.A. Ski Team, led by Captain Alexander deLahunta and seven returning lettermen, was looking forward to a very successful year. However, lack of snow forced the cancellation of four of the six scheduled meets and left the team in poor shape for the two that were held.

In the first meet, P.A. lost to a powerful Exeter squad, by a score of 91-85. Exeter took the first five places in the downhill, followed by Hoyt, deLahunta and Martin of Andover. P.A. picked up most of its points in the slalom where Hoyt tied for first and deLahunta and MacAskill also scored for the Blue.

Although the team won no events, Andover gave the Dublin School a good battle while losing the second meet. The P.A. weakness in the cross-country event was largely responsible for the loss. Gilland came in first for Andover, eight minutes behind the winner. Tying for first in the downhill, Hoyt and deLahunta got Andover off to a lead. Martin in fourth and MacAskill in tenth place also picked up points for P.A. At the end of this event P.A. trailed by two points. Andover's strongest event, the slalom, was not held because the snow was too thin, and the deciding event was the jump. DeLahunta took second and Hoyt fourth, both men jumping competitively for the first time, but Andover was defeated 96-92, thus losing the match.

Andover sent a four-man team to the New England Interscholastics at Middlebury. P.A. was fourth out of seven competing schools in the slalom, as Hoyt took eighth place, Gilland tenth, MacAskill twentieth and Martin twenty-first. The team did not place in the cross-country, and lack of time forced a withdrawal from the other two events.

Reviewing the year, it can be said that the Andover skiers did very well, considering the lack of snow. Prospects for next year's team are doubtful as there will be no returning lettermen. The captain will be Charlie Cushman.

In a season characterized by winning and losing streaks, Andover's varsity Baseball Team proved itself strong in aspects of team play and team spirit. The squad began the campaign poorly, dropping its first four games, but copped its next seven in a row. The last two games were lost to Dartmouth and Exeter, both by two-run margins.

The Blue succumbed to Yale, Dorchester, Groton, and Boston College in the opening two weeks of the season. During this interval, pitching was erratic, hitting weak, and fielding defective. The Eli freshmen downed P.A. 7-3, and sent four opposing pitchers to the showers. Hurler Norm Allenby lost a heartbreaking 2-1 contest to Dorchester High. Groton overcame the Blue with a powerful hitting attack that accounted for seven runs in the first two innings, but reliefer Pat Pratt provided P.A. partisans with their first thrill of the season as he quelled a Groton uprising, fanning three consecutive batters after the opposition had scored three times. Bill Duffy pitched a masterful 10-inning 7-hitter against the Boston College freshmen, but lost when his teammates produced only 1 tally.

In the fifth tilt, the team, on the short end of a 7-0 count, suddenly blasted P.A.

alumnus John Arnold and his successors for seven hits in two innings, and gained a victory. Shortstop Joe Wennik, in his third season as first-string infielder, gathered three hits, and outfielders Bob O'Hearn and Doug Melville both connected for decisive blows. Next, Duffy gained the first of his three triumphs by beating Lynn Classical with a one-hitter. Wennik continued his spectacular hitting, going seven for nine, in two games. A weak Brewster aggregation fell before the Blue onslaught, 12-5. Norm Allenby pitched his first victory as his teammates backed him with twelve hits, including a home-run by Melville.

Against Brown and Deerfield, Duffy and Captain Dex Franklin hurled Coach "Flop" Follansbee's charges to victory. The former limited the Brown Frosh to five hits. The latter, ordinarily a first-baseman, tried his hand at pitching and emerged with a five hit 6-3 triumph, over a favored Deerfield team. Bob O'Hearn led the attack by slamming the Deerfield pitcher's first offering of the game for a home-run.

Duffy maintained his fine average, with a four-hit win over the Bowdoin J.V.'s. The Blue next downed a game Lawrence Academy team, but lost to the Dartmouth Freshmen in the Exeter tune up.

The team traveled to Exeter for the 71st game of the oldest schoolboy series, and, in a sloppy, free-scoring contest, was downed, 10-8. The home team started off by scoring three runs off Duffy in the first inning and followed this up by knocking him out in the third, with the score 7-0. Pratt relieved, and a lapse of control gave Exeter two more runs, which, with a single tally in the eighth finished the Exeter scoring. Meanwhile, the Blue scored one in the second, two in the fourth and one in the fifth. The Blue scored four in the eighth, three of them on O'Hearn's triple, but a ninth inning rally was cut short by a circus catch, of Stevenson's drive, by right-fielder and starting pitcher Merrill May.

At the post-season banquet, Joe Wennik was chosen captain and Bob Larsen, manager for next year.

Andover's 1951 Lacrosse Team ended a mediocre season with six victories and five defeats.

Forming the first attack, captain Bob Sutherland, John Horn, and Sid Negus comprised the drive behind Andover's scoring punch. The former two were both lettermen of last year, and the latter was up from J.V. Lacrosse. Regular substitutes for any of the first attack were Dick Kapelson and Ken Rider, who showed steady improvement during the season. Captain Sutherland led the team in scoring with thirty-five goals and fourteen assists. Sid Negus was second with thirteen goals and ten assists, followed by midfielder Tim Anderson and John Horn.

Tim Anderson, playing his fourth year of Varsity Lacrosse, led the first midfield while Harry Berkowitz and Bob Jackson filled the other two slots until Berkowitz became seriously ill. He was replaced by either Mike Tyson or Dick Hueber. George Rider headed the second midfield along with Paul Sawyer and Dick Hueber depending upon the game. Bob Cuthbertson, Bill Walworth, and Tom Hartshorne, all newcomers to the team composed the third line. Due to illness, injuries, and other causes the midfielders were juggled throughout the season.

John Ogden in the goal formed the backbone of a good defensive machine. Jerry Lasley, Ev Anderson, Jerry Ward, and Howie Payne were the first four men on defense. Al Dibbons and Dick Steadman were on deck as competent substitutes; Bill Van Alstyne of hockey fame was goalie Ogden's understudy.

The Blue opened its season with an overpowering 20-2 victory over a weak Tufts freshman squad. Andover then traveled to Mt. Hermon only to lose a heartbreaker in the last ten seconds 8-7, but the Royal Blue came surging back to beat Manhasset's 8-6 and Governor Dummer 16-3. Deerfield, seeking revenge for last year's defeat, unfortunately was eminently successful in this aim. The Blue team lost this one 18-3, but once again bounced back defeating the Harvard Freshmen 11-4. The Blue squad dropped its third, going down to Middlesex, 5-3. After defeating the M.I.T. Freshmen 18-4 and the U. N. H. Freshmen 12-7, the stickmen faltered once again losing to Dartmouth 15-8.

Going into the Exeter contest, Andover's record stood at six wins and four losses. In this contest Andover was never really in the game until the second half. Exeter grabbed a 9-1 lead in the first two periods with Bob Sutherland scoring Andover's only goal. In the latter stages of the game Andover fought well but could not get control of the ball long enough to take many shots.

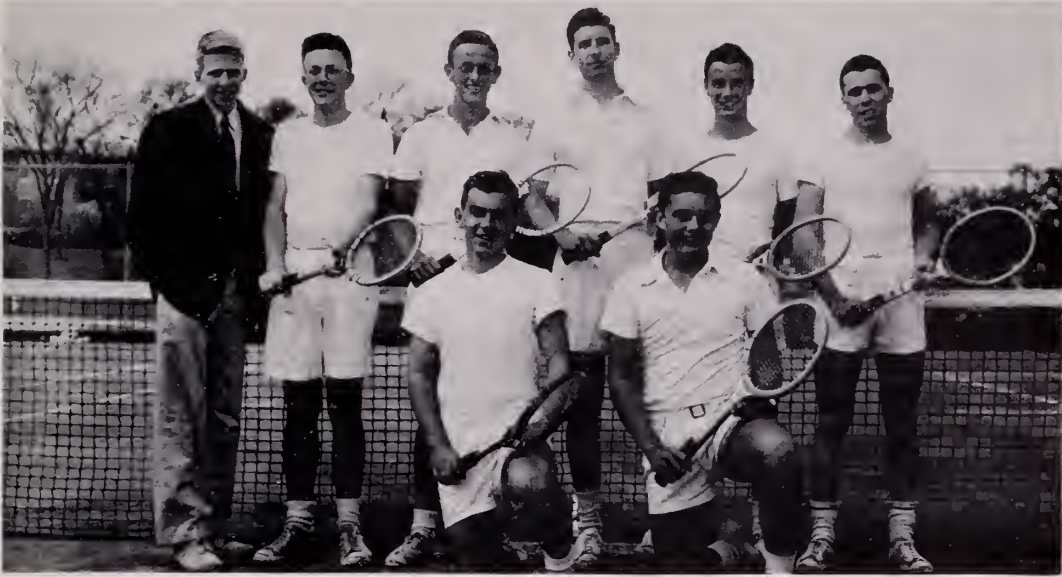

Although Andover only won six games out of eleven, the stickmen way outscored their opponents, scoring 107 goals to the opposition's 84.

Captain next year will be Howie Payne, with Dave Babin manager, replacing Bob Sutherland and John Cloud, respectively.

The Andover Tennis Team, this spring, compiled one of the best records in recent years. The team won four and lost three matches and highlighted the season with an easy victory in the New England Interscholastics and a triumph over Exeter.

Captain George Stewart led five returning lettermen. "Doc" Houk played first singles throughout the season. "Doc" was the Interscholastics singles winner and was undefeated in scholastic play until the Exeter match. Captain Stewart played at the number two position and got to the semi-finals of the Interscholastics. The third position shifted between Ralph Stuart and Dick Sagebiel, the former playing third in the Exeter meet. Bob Jessup, Bob Barton and Karl Purnell switched around at numbers five and six, the latter two playing against the Red.

The strong point of the team was the depth in doubles. The team failed to win a majority of the doubles only against Harvard. The number one team was composed of Houk and Stewart. Stuart and Sagebiel played second in all the meets but the third position varied between Barton and Jessup and Purnell and Tony Ellison, the latter playing against Exeter.

The team won easy victories over M.I.T., Milton and Tufts but was overpowered by a strong Harvard Freshman team. Deerfield upset the Blue 6-3, and St. Paul's won a 5-4 victory over a P.A. team, sadly missing Stewart.

In spite of the mediocre dual meet record, the team ran away with the Interscholastic titles over Exeter, St. Paul's and several other New England schools. Houk, seeded first, won the singles championship without losing a set. Stewart, third seeded, reached the semi-finals where he was edged by Gardner of St. Paul's. Houk and Stewart took the doubles championship, defeating Gravem and Yarnall of Exeter in the final. Stuart and Sagebiel got to the semi-finals where they were beaten by Gravem-Yarnall and Purnell and Ellison reached the quarter-final round.

The team climaxed its season with a 6-3 victory over Exeter. Rain at Andover forced the removal of the meet to Exeter, and further rain made it necessary for the doubles to be played inside the Exeter cage.

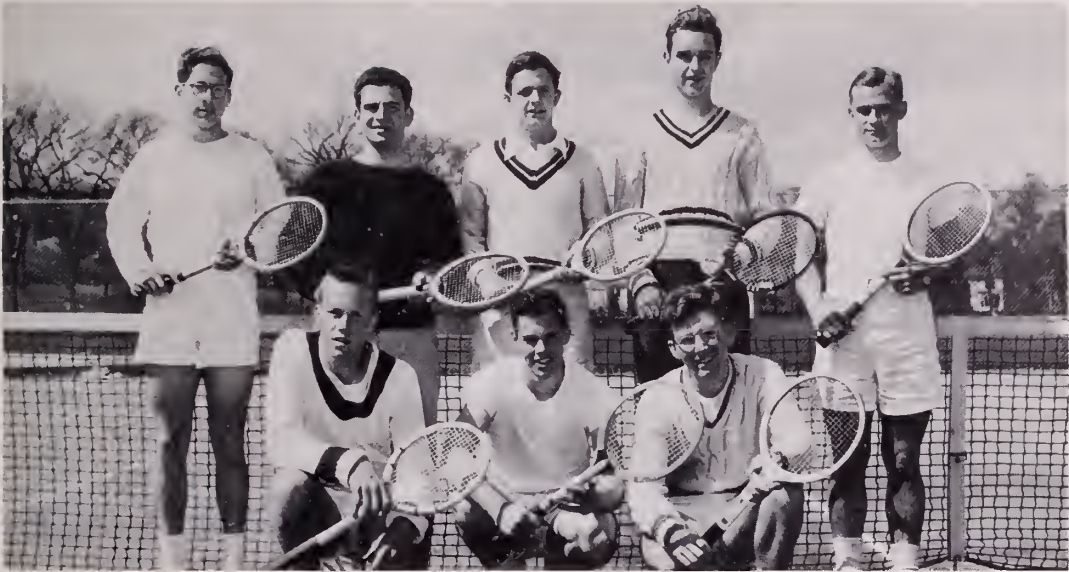

The meet started off inauspiciously as "Doc" Houk was upset by Ham Gravem, the Exeter captain, George Stewart evened the score by defeating Chuck Yarnall, in his best match of the year. Ralph Stuart was downed by Graham Jones, the Exeter captain; and Dick Sagebiel bowed to Len Hudgins. However, Bob Barton won from Al Trostel, and Karl Purnell outlasted Sam Schoonmaker to even the meet at three matches apiece.

The Andover doubles strength proved decisive, as the Blue swept all three matches. Houk-Stewart repeated their Interscholastics victory over Gravem-Yarnall, as did Stuart-Sagebiel over Jones-Hudgins. Purnell-Ellison defeated Schoonmaker-Trostel to make the final meet score 6-3 for Andover.

Andover won N. E. Interscholastics and Brown Interscholastics.

One of history's strongest Andover spring track squads started the season off, paradoxically enough with a 66-60 defeat at the hands of the Harvard Freshmen, and then won its next eight meets in a row. The victories included those in the New England Interscholastics, the annual Andover-Exeter affair, and the Brown Interscholastic Meet at Providence.

Andover's season was marked by a remarkably well-balanced team. This was especially true in the weight events, where co-captain Bob Doran, Fred Weicker, and Bob Kimball, winner of 118 points on the year held down the shot put, hammer, javelin, and discus. Kimball and George Stoddard formed a one-two broad jumping team. The running season was marked by a depth in the dashes and hurdles which last year's squad lacked. Each of these four events had men capable of winning first place. The 100 and 220 dashes offered Al Moe and Phil Franz, who switched back and forth between first and second all year. The high hurdles team was composed of Doug Graham and Walt Kirkham, while the low hurdle contingent was made up of Larry Reno and Tim Wright. Co-captain Bill Flanders led the half mile field, while Paul Loberg and Pete Kohler held down the mile. The other two field events were taken care of by Stretch Hayes, Bobo Ingersoll, and Tom Regan in the high jump, and Jim Samaschin and Bob Rosebaum in the pole vault.

The Harvard meet gave Kimball his first of eight successive wins in each the javelin and discus. In spite of the Blue's impressive first meet showing, alumnus Gil Murray of the Frosh ruined the Andover chances for an initial win by scoring eight points. The first win of the season was gained at the hands of the Brown Freshmen, 89-37. The win over the New Hampshire Freshmen gave the Blue its highest score of the year, 101-25. Al Moe, Phil Franz, and Larry Reno gave the Blue a sweep in the 100.

Dartmouth came to Brothers Field the following Saturday to compete in what was supposed to be a close meet, but the New Hampshireites were beaten by the Blue, 80-46. The following week the Blue surpassed the New Hampshire score with a 99-27 victory against Northeastern. The Andover men swept each of the weight events.

Next week the Blue won the Annual New England Interscholastics with a total of 74 points to runner-up Exeter's 35. The Blue took individual championships in the hammer and shot put with Bob Doran, in the discus and javelin with Bob Kimball, in the hammer with Fred Weicker and in the low hurdles with Larry Reno.

The A-E meet was won by the Blue 80-46. Reno won the 100 in an upset and then took the low hurdle event to score ten points for the Andover cause. Kimball pulled down thirteen for the eighth time of the year with victories in the discus, javelin, and a second in the broad jump.

The first post season meet was won by the Blue by a margin of forty points at the Forty-Second Annual Brown Interscholastics. Kimball, Weicker, Reno, and Moe again won in their specialties, with Moe taking both dash events. The year's final meet was won against the Alumni, 69½-56½, for the eighth win in a row. This skein remains intact as the Blue goes into next season.

GOLF

Fajardo, Houlihan, Stevens, Vance, Smith, Ornsteen, Cummins

Andover's 1950 Golf Team proved to be one of the best balanced combinations seen here in recent years. Although the team lacked any really outstanding golfers, all six men in each meet usually finished within a few strokes of each other. This depth was evident in the team's good record of four wins against two losses.

Captain Dick Vance, playing first position for the entire season, consistently turned in the best scores. His best was a par-equaling 74 at Governor Dummer, and he frequently scored in the seventies. He won the Faculty Cup, awarded annually for the best performance in an eighteen hole competition, with an 81.

The other positions on the team varied widely, with Ric Fajardo, Bob Ornsteen, Bob Cummings, Bill Stevens, Sam Smith, Tom Wheeling, and Jerry Houlihan all seeing service. Ornsteen, Cummings, Smith, and Houlihan played in most of the earlier matches, with much-improved Wheeling and Stevens entering the late season lineups.

Andover beat Exeter 6-3 on the hilly Haverhill Country Club course. Vance and Stevens, playing in the first foursome, both won their matches and also the best ball. Ornsteen and Cummings both lost, and dropped the best ball. The match was clinched by Wheeling and Smith, who won both their matches and best ball. Wheeling turned in the finest golf by a member of either team for the afternoon, scoring a 78, although a stranger to the course.

The P.A. golfers handily stroked their way to first place in the annual Governor Dummer-Exeter-Andover Round Robin match, with one phase played on each team's home course. Andover's aggregate was a full thirty points ahead of Exeter, while Governor Dummer lagged far behind. Thus Andover retained the cup won the previous year.

Tom Wheeling and Bill Stevens were elected as co-captains for next season.

Student Council

This year marked a great change in Student Government brought about by the evolution of the Student Congress to a major position. The change had been coming ever since a new Constitution, in 1949, instituted the Congress to coexist with the Council as a group in closer contact with the students and more representative of their opinions and wishes. During the Congress' career, it had more and more shown itself capable of handling all the duties of student government; 1950-51 saw its final gain of control.

The Student Council faithfully fulfilled its duties as a liaison between the student body and Mr. Kemper. It met with him at Phelps House every Tuesday night to discuss matters in which it could represent student opinion, particularly in certain disciplinary cases. To handle purely intra-student affairs, the Council met on Fridays in the Blue Room. The results of such meetings were a plan to increase student participation in extra-curricular activities, the production of an amateur night and several tea dances. In conjunction with the Congress they arranged the granting of extra weekend privileges and longer day excuses for Seniors. Also, an unsuccessful attempt was made to establish a summer employment plan by which alumni would be canvassed for summer openings, and these jobs could be offered to students. Next year another attempt will be made to institute this plan at Andover. The most important action of the Council was the formation of a committee to combat stealing at the instigation of Bob Marcus of the Congress. This step was rightly styled by Mr. Benedict, "The best thing student government has done at Andover."

The fall term officers were Win Adkins, President; Tim Anderson, Vice-President; Ozzie Ayscue, Secretary; and Norm Allenby, Treasurer. In winter, the Council was led by Frank Yatsu, "Bo" Ingersoll, and Allenby, who doubled as Secretary and Treasurer. In spring, it was guided by Adkins, Ayscue, Anderson, and Allenby.

Throughout the year, the Council was vehemently attacked for lack of action, as the Congress gained in potency, ability and prestige. Time and again, Council functions were handled by the Congress. By the spring term, the Council was no more than an advisory body.

The policy of the fall Congress was very much in pursuance of that of the previous four Congresses. Rather than use its full potential, it maintained a secondary role. Characteristically, it did such things as establishing laundry-box pickups at Benner House and undertaking joint proctoring of the Library with the Council. The officers were Bill Cooke, President; Tom Pettus, Vice-President; and Paul Quackenbush, Secretary-Treasurer.

The change was heralded by the election of the winter term Congress. The first action of this body was to make compulsory the reporting of Congress activities by members to their constituents. In a Congress-held vote the student body was found to favor movie discipline by a slight majority, and an abortive effort was made to institute such. An Infirmary Committee was formed to obtain recreational equipment for the infirmary with the surplus Congress funds. Tom Pettus headed the Saturday Night Committee, which tried to persuade the faculty to liberalize rules on Saturday evening; but the Faculty did not take action. Under the leadership of Bob Marcus, a Chapel Committee was formed to conduct an extensive investigation of what could be done to improve the daily services. A poll was taken on speakers, speech content, conduct — and a tentative program of musical services. The outcome of the committee's work was the institution of a weekly service of organ music. Moreover, Mr. Baldwin promised to consider the poll's recommendations when arranging the speakers for next year. After a private inquiry downtown by Bob Marcus, the matter of student stealing was brought up and several propositions made for stopping the practice. Finally, Mr. Kemper's suggestion of a Stealing Committee composed of several Student Council men and the Congress President was adopted. By these vigorous actions, the Congress adequately demonstrated that it could handle the task of student government at Andover. The officers were Tom Pettus, Lloyd Cutting, Gordon Humphries, and Bob Gordon.

The spring brought the new Constitution. Recognizing the incongruity of a bicameral government with only one actively functioning division, Bob Mareus proposed that the governmental system be thoroughly revised and outlined a plan for doing so. A committee to draw up a new Constitution was formed, headed by Ron Ansin. This committee held hearings in order to determine public opinion on the matter. Tom Pettus suggested a group to function solely as a liaison between the students and the Faculty.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION APPROVED The "popularity poll" abolished

This Advisory Board was to be composed of the Class Presidents, the respective Presidents of the Congress Philo, and the Phillips Society, the Editor of the Phillipian, and elected members from the Congress. Another important provision of the new Constitution makes it mandatory for each Congress member to report to his constituents every week. This Constitution was passed by an overwhelming majority in a vote of the entire student body. The officers for the spring term were Ron Ansin, Hal Higgins, Gordon Humphries and George Stewart.

The removal of the Council from student government at Andover is not an indictment of its actions. It is simply the replacement, by some thing infinitely better, of a body which while not having done badly, had outlived its usefulness. The new Congress is more flexible, for in the first place, it is closer to the students; secondly, it isn't large enough to be unwieldy.

Student government, at Andover, this year has taken its greatest step since its inception towards a working arrangement.

Academy Church

About one hundred and twenty-five students and forty of Andover's Faculty are members of the School Church. This body elects each year a small group of boys to the position of student-deacons. The function of the deacons is to assist Mr. Baldwin, the school minister, and Mr. George Follansbee, the Faculty advisor, in running the Cochran Chapel. The deacons usher at both the weekday and the Sunday services. They also collect and count the collection on Sundays, and as another of their functions, they help Mr. Baldwin decide to which charities this money should be donated.

This year, in an attempt to make daily services more interesting to more students, the deacons and the Student Congress sought the advice of the students themselves. One result was the music service, which was held once every two weeks in place of the usual daily service. Another student suggestion, that the Faculty speakers discuss their personal philosophies, was also tried out.

The deacons took part in the winter term Vesper Services, and conducted the Christmas and Thanksgiving day services.

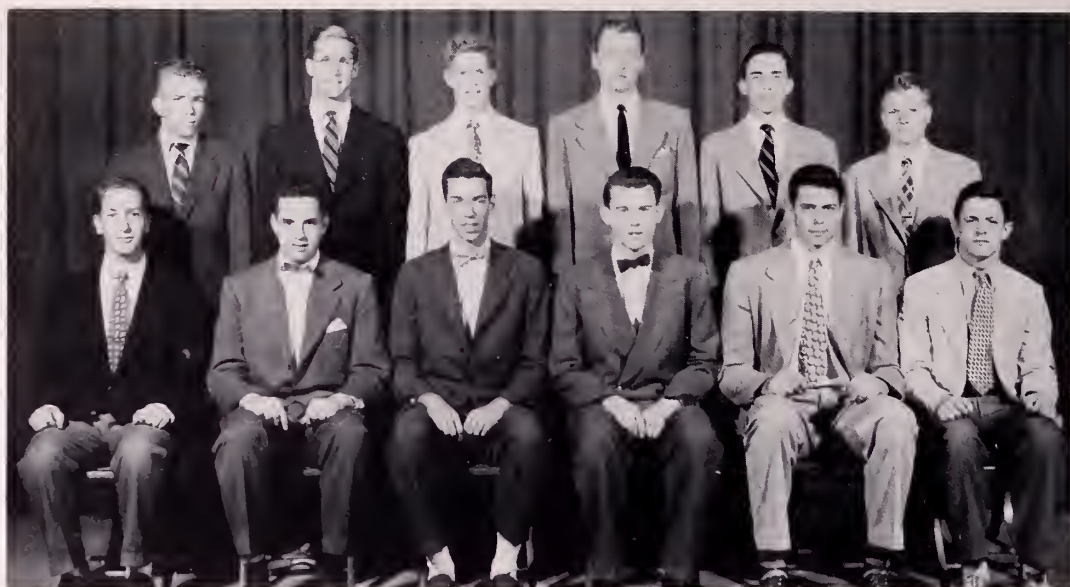

This year's deacons have done much to help Mr. Baldwin make the Chapel services, on weekdays especially, hold more meaning for the Andover student body.

Under the direction of President Nat Reed, the functions of this year's Phillips Society were divided among ten committees, with headquarters at Graham House. The old A.U.V. fraternity house was given to the society as a place for official meetings and social gatherings.

At the beginning of the fall term, the society sponsored a prep reception and meeting, to introduce the new boys to the numerous extra-curricular activities at P.A. In response, two hundred boys turned out for the society's organization meeting, and activities could be started early in the term.

The Charities Drive Committee, led by Tom Pettus and Pete Baldwin, conducted a successful drive on the eve of the Exeter game. Not only did the committee receive one hundred per cent coöperation and contribution from the student body, but also collected $176 over their goal of $3,600. The money was given to such charitable organizations as the Red Cross, Community Chest and the World Student Service Fund.

The Deputations Committee, under the leadership of Chuck Findlay and Bill Goodman, undertook the job of securing student speakers for the Thursday evening Chapel Services, from either the society or the Student Deacons. They also taught Sunday School at the Universalist Church in Lawrence, and assisted at church services in Lawrence and Lowell.

One of the most active groups was Tony Fisher's Discussions and Conferences Committee, which held discussions with prominent businessmen, labor leaders, political figures and many others of interest to the school. Among their guests were Dr. Howard Thurman, of San Francisco, Mr. Daniel Shirmer, Secretary of the Massachusetts Communist party and Mr. Yvelin Gardner, regional Secretary of Alcoholics Anonymous. The committee also sent student representatives to various conferences. Mr. Reed, the committee's faculty advisor, took a group to the Northfield Religious Conference, which highlighted the committee's work this year.

The Speaker's Committee, led by Howie Payne, worked along with the Discussions Committee and was in charge of obtaining speakers for the school's Wednesday morning assemblies. During the year, the group sponsored a total of seven speakers, including Dr. Thurman, Mr. Gardner and Dr. Chakravarty, of the Indian delegation to the U. N.

Directed by Paul Horowitz, the School Affiliations Committee concerned itself with the exchange of school publications, art work, snap shots, scrap books and letters with schools in France and Germany.

The Field Trips Committee, under Fred Weicker, took trips to the Danvers State Hospital, the Charlestown Prison and the Museum of Fine Arts, in Boston.

Led by Bob Larse, the Social Functions

Committee planned several receptions, such as the Prep Reception and the dinner for the class of 1950. The group also organized the Faculty-Student Card-Party and the Phillips Society dances with Abbot and Beaver Country Day School, as well as taking charge of the Sunday morning coffee and the Graham House and the society's annual gathering at the Log Cabin.

With Gord Barnes as Chairman, the Community Service Committee did constructive work with the Andover Youth Guild, helped with Boy Scout work and took care of the faculty children on Sunday mornings.

The Old Clothes Committee, under Morgan Howell, conducted four magazine drives, three old clothes drives and one book drive for the Loan Library. All of these drives met with nearly one hundred percent coöperation from the School. The articles collected were given to such organizations as the Boston Friends Society and the Salvation Army.

The House Committee, directed by Tom Pettus and Gerry Lasley, had the responsibility of keeping Graham House in good order and of formulating plans for repairing and redecorating.

At the final society meeting, officers were elected for next year. They are Howie Payne, President; Bill Stone, Vice-President; Gord Barnes, Secretary; and Tony Fisher, Treasurer.

Mirror

The 1951 Mirror was a fresh and crisp change. Lacking three years of being a century-old publication, the Mirror ignored its age and with great zest added a new size and layout, a striking design and, in short, complete modernism.

To begin with, the format grew to an impressive 8" by 11", giving Editor Bob Thompson plenty of room to work with. Though the winter issue was comparatively poor, Thompson and his board, in the spring, put out one of the finest Mirrors in the long history of the publication.

The cover was a stunning abstraction of Christ, done by John Ogden, superimposed on a photograph of electromagnetic images.

F. M. Kimball, in "Frustration Among the Dunes," revealed, with a series of hilarious flashes, his life at a Long Island summer resort. In contrast to this, was Aubrey Goodman's "Thin Ice," an intense character study of a forty-year-old woman, who tries unsuccessfully to recapture her youth. Outstanding poetry was contributed by Steve Charnas and Gerry Gillespie.

This year's art department was the strongest it has been for many years. Thompson, Ogden, Tim Sutton and Conge Fawcett were the ranking artists, with Doc Castle, chief photographer.

Bob Stone was elected editor of next year's Mirror.

Pot Pourri

Every year the editors of the POT POURRI make minor revisions in order to try to put out a better book than did their predecessors. This year we made so many changes that the 1951 POT POURRI has become somewhat of an experiment. Although we do not necessarily feel that this book is an improvement over last year's, the editors are confident that their innovations will eventually result in a publication of higher quality.

BUSINESSMAN RAINE

A new contract meant fewer expenses

Since our yearbook made its first appearance in 1893, it has undergone only one great change: namely, a gradual switch from the old book containing only lists of students and a few articles to the modern one which presents Andover more accurately through numerous photographs. With this trend to modernization in mind, the editors decided to revolutionize the printing method by having the book done on the new offset lithography rather than on the regular letterpress process. In addition to the fact that photographs can be printed much cheaper on offset, there were other reasons for making this change. Because there are fewer expenses in printing a book on offset, and because letterpress costs are rising, only a much smaller POT POURRI could have been printed by the old process. Furthermore, art work such as the dividers which appeared in last year's book is very easily printed by the new method. Indeed, the only advantage which letterpress has over offset is that, at present, the former often offers higher quality. However, if enough care is taken in printing and proofreading, the latter can print the same high quality which the POT POURRI insists upon. After doing much research, the 1951 staff felt capable of making the experiment which inevitably would have been made in the very near future.

Traditionally, the POT POURRI has been a one-man job. But this year the editor experimented and did nothing—or so it must have seemed. Yet, his duties as an administrator and proofreader kept him, to say the least, very busy. In order to facilitate his job, all duties which could be carried out by others were delegated to several editors and associates. Managing Editor Dick Ullman carried the heaviest load drawing up the book, fitting in copy and photographs to the nearest sixteenth of an inch, and serving as liaison officer with the printers. Bob Bachner, Copy Editor, proofread, rewrote, and reassigned all articles to the last word. Complete responsibility for the Athletic Section was given to Sports Editor Jim Pates. The Editor is especially indebted to these three for the sleepless nights they spent working during Commencement in order that he might not have to spend his summer in Andover.

As this book goes to the press, the success of the Business Department is not yet known. Under the direction of Ken Raine, revised subscription blanks were used which resulted in the sale of more books. Circulation Manager Jim Ullman then did a remarkable job in eliminating the customary little pile of unpaid bills. The Editorial Department saved money by switching to offset and getting Photographic Editor Charly Schultz to do a superb job without outside help. Should Advertising Manager Bob Kipka succeed, both the editor's experiment of not meddling into business problems, and the 1951 POT POURRI will be successful.

Phillipian

The 1950-51 Phillipian was the most outspoken the School had seen in recent years. It sometimes said things that no one cared to hear. For this policy of "washing the school's dirty linen" in public, the paper came to be the object of much criticism. The critics acknowledged the fact that Andover had a free press, but they questioned its responsibility. Many were convinced that freedom had been abused.

Yet there were some who felt that the criticism presented in the editorial columns was needed and that it was healthy. A minority believed that the Phillipian could be a force for good in constantly bringing to the attention of those responsible for the future of the academy the shortcomings and inequalities of the present system from the student point of view. Examples were frequent. The question of secondary motives was raised in connection with the obviously poor choice of the topic for the 1950 Stearns Lecture. Problems confronting the planners of the new curriculum were discussed and suggestions made. Disciplinary problems, particularly those concerning the Commons, were treated. The wisdom of compulsory chapel was questioned. The Student Body came in for its share of criticism in such matters as stealing and the generally immature attitudes expressed by some segments. In these ways, the Phillipian tried to encourage the average student to be a thinking individual, instead of the usual "type."

The opposition to these editorial policies maintained that students, categorically had neither the right nor the experience to formulate opinions on such serious and complex subjects as the aims of secondary education or other administrative affairs. Contrary to this dictum, the editors of the Phillipian held a common faith in the value of student opinion in any matter which affected them.

Experimental production methods were pioneered with the introduction of varitype photo-offset printing in the fall of 1950. This change from the conventional letterpress methods was made under the Editorship of F. M. Kimball, who was later deposed by Faculty decree and replaced by Jim Pates. The new system enabled the paper to cut costs by forty percent, and pull its operations out of the red. In addition, it provided opportunity for experimentation with a more modern and flexible format. Reporting was improved by increased use of photography. Issues such as the ten-page memorial issue to Henry L. Stimson would have been an impossibility the previous year. Managing Editor Dick Ullman and his assistant Bob Bachner provided the technical know-how and the long hours necessary to make the new methods work. The above-mentioned four, plus Executive Editor O. L. Johnston, were the group that formulated the paper's editorial policies. Business Manager Nat Reed capably secured the necessary funds.

Film Society

The Film Society had another successful and well received season this year with practically the entire student body purchasing tickets. With the assistance and advice of Mr. Morgan the society was able to put on a varied and interesting program during the winter term. President Tim Anderson, Secretary-treasurer John Ogden, and the rest of the Film Society board took charge of the showing of the films and met with Mr. Morgan to discuss and help select them.

The first selection consisted of four old Chaplin comedies, "The Tramp," "The Thief," "The Woman," and "The Bank." These crude but interesting movies were contrasted with next week's film, "The Thin Man," a fast-moving comedy-mystery. Some of the other films were: "M," a German film dealing with a manhunt for a psychopathic murderer; "Night Must Fall," a tense well-acted mystery; "Million Dollar Legs," a satirical comedy; "La Grande Illusion," a moving French film dealing with life in a German prison camp during World War I; and a repeat performance of Cocteau's fantasy, "La Belle et La Bete." The season closed with the film version of Shaw's play, "Major Barbara," a sequel to last year's "Pygmalion."

Antony and Cleopatra

The Dramatic Club's production of Antony and Cleopatra was one of the most effective the club has put on. Presented during the winter term in contrast to other years, the show was marked by its well-balanced cast, fine directing and imaginative staging.

The title roles were taken by Fred Weicker and Mrs. Audrey Bensley. Weicker's imposing voice and manner made an impressive Antony, and he maintained the dignity of the part throughout the performance. As Cleopatra, Mrs. Bensley was able to balance the tenderness and passion of the "serpent of the Nile" to a remarkable degree. The scenes between the two were excellently done; particularly the death of Antony, as moving a scene as the stage of George Washington Hall will ever see.

The outstanding supporting players were Blair Behringer and George Morgan. Behringer gave a cold calculating performance as the ruthless Octavius Caesar, Antony's competitor for command of the empire. As Enobarbus, Antony's trusted lieutenant who deserts him, Morgan, the Dramatic Club's president, gave a sympathetic portrayal. In the roles of Charmian and Iras, Cleopatra's attendants and confidants, Mrs. Fitts and Mrs. Thomas gave tender and sensitive interpretations. Walter Goffart was a delightful Lepidus, particularly in the hilarious drunken banquet scene. Sextus Pompey was capably played by Gordon Humphries and John Starkweather gave a hair-raising performance as the old farmer who brings Cleopatra the fatal asps. Agrippa, a partisan of Caesar, was agreeably portrayed by Steve Booth.

The part of the high-minded Roman matron Octavia, sister to Caesar and wife of Antony, was convincingly played by Mrs. Hayes. Doug Williams was Eros and Jack Bigelow was Scarus, two friends of Antony. George Strzetelski played the pirate Menas, Pompey's henchman, while the part of Dolabella, one of Caesar's friends, was taken by Bob Thompson.

In minor roles, Tony Quainton and Aubrey Goodman were Cleopatra's attendants, while Dean Gitter played the soothsayer who warns Antony of his downfall. Al Dibbins gave an uproarious performance as the hapless messenger who must tell Cleopatra of Antony's marriage to Octavia. Other friends of Caesar were acted by Jim Pates, Sterling Alexander and Ray Levey; the roles of their counterparts in Antony's camp were taken by Francis Gilmour, Bob Stengel, Dick Ullman and Herb Cole.

As director, Mr. Hallowell had the job of cutting the play to a size suitable for presentation. This year, the task was particularly difficult, and he was forced to compress the play from 42 to 27 scenes. This job, and the disposal of an unusually large cast made the position of director quite hard and the success of the play stemmed in large measure from Mr. Hallowell's efforts.

For the first time in the club's history, the staging was suggestive, rather than representational. The scenery was composed of several cubes and prisms, the color varying with the locale of the scene. Changes were made in total darkness, with no curtain, but with spotlighted symbols of Rome and Egypt to attract the audience's attention. The sets were conceived by Paul Potter, and the stage crew was under the direction of Wolf Duerr, advised by Mr. Hyde. The colorful costumes were done by Mrs. Byers and Miss Madi Brizio; music was arranged and directed by Mr. Schneider. The Business Manager was Bob Stone.

This year's audiences were not as large as previous ones. However, those who came saw a well-acted, directed, staged and a thoroughly enjoyable show.

Green Bag

The Little Green Bag, a comic opera satirizing school life, produced by members of the Senior Class, was presented the evening before graduation. The lyrics were by Steve Booth, and the book by F. M. Kimball, who also directed. Bob Beardsley wrote the music. The play was based on sketches by Kimball and O. L. Johnston.

The Bag tells the rise and fall of Sweeny (John Ingersoll), a Senior prep who at first is a "queer" because he uses a green bookbag. His housemaster (Walter Goffart) advises him that bookbags are forbidden. Sweeny burns the bag, and from then on his rise is unhindered. In the last scene he, as Student Council President, proposes to salvage Senior morale by building an asphalt walk to the Armillary Sphere. His symbol, a clothes dummy with a major "A," is elevated to a plaster pedestal and lauded. His fall is swift: the symbol is shot at the show's end.

Other contributors were George Morgan, choreographer; Morris Goodman, contributing lyricist; and John Ogden, set designer. The cast included Morgan, Goodman, Tom Pettus and Bill Flanders. Assorted "rocks" were played by various Seniors.

Latin Play

This year's Latin comedy, Rudens, by Plautus, was presented April 20. As most Roman plays, the plot was a variation on an old theme, the lost daughter, Nancy Adams, who is found in the hands of a pimp, Walter Goffart, and who is finally restored to her father, Ralph Cestero, and her lover, Bill Ridgway, by the application of forcible methods at the hands of a pair of burly slaves, Al Dibbins and Johnny Ogden. The whole play was performed with spirit and skill by the cast which included Frank Mayer, Janet Thompson, Lloyd Farrar and Ed Gates.

Since, of course, few members of the audience have a wide enough knowledge of Latin to enable them to follow the dialogue, the key to the success of any such play lies in pantomime. Fortunately, Rudens was very suitable for such treatment, for it included a great many props. Another good point about this production was the change from other years in respect to scenery. To afford more acting room, the whole depth of the stage was used by putting the temple, a vital part of the set, completely in the rear of the stage. This setting was designed and executed by John Plews.

Much credit should be given to Mr. Stevens who for four years has been managing and directing this series and has produced each year, despite difficulties in casting and staging, a very entertaining and unusual play.

Second Row: Snider, Norris, Doggett, Barber, Sherbrooke, Curtiss, Ridgeway, Goodnow*

Stage Crew

The Stage Crew's most important job, this year, was the design and production of the sets for Antony and Cleopatra. These sets presented a very original appearance. Instead of the usual simulated marble temples and buildings, the sets consisted of different geometric and abstract designs, whose position could be shifted as the scenes demanded. Different colors represented different characters. Scenes for Antony and Cleopatra were done in green, for Caesar, in blue, and for others, the color was neutral. The design and construction of these sets was mainly in the hands of Paul Potter, Dick Shepherd, and "Scottie" Miller. Faculty advisors were Mr. Hyde and Mr. Hallowell. Of great importance to the success of the production was the scene shifting. These shifts were done in total blackouts, in twenty seconds.

By the beginning of the spring term, the crew was ready to turn to the job of producing the sets, and arranging the lighting for the musical, Robin Hood. However, when this production was cancelled, the Stage Crew took up the job of staging The Little Green Bag, the class day operetta.

During the course of the year, the crew frequently helped various school organizations, such as the band and the POR POURRI; putting on programs in assembly.

Great credit should go to Wolf Duerr, director; Ken Raine and Gordon Douglas, electricians; and all the other crew members, who willingly gave up most of their free time to help make all the productions of the year a success.

Philo

Due to a greatly expanded program and an awakening of student interest in its activities, Philo has had a banner year.

The first major event was the celebration of the Society's 125th anniversary on December ninth. An extensive week-long exhibit in the lobby of the library featured "125 Years of Philo." Mr. John S. Hooper, '24, Editor of the Brattleboro (Vt.) Reformer and Vermont Phoenix, spoke at a special school assembly on December 9 on "The Right to Disagree," and a Philo Anniversary Banquet was held in the evening. Banquet speakers included Philo President Ronnie Ansin, Dean Benedict, and Varsity Debating Coaches Hasenclever and Dodge. A faculty debating team consisting of old Philo members Brown, Harding, Peterson, tied with a student team on the topic, "Resolved: War is Beneficial to Mankind."

Meetings of the Society were held on Wednesday night during the fall and spring terms and Monday night during the winter term. The weekly Bulfinch Debating Room gatherings, featuring debates and discussions on a wide number of international, national, and school topics, were well attended.

Speakers on subjects of current interest were presented to the school at the Philo-conducted Wednesday morning assemblies. Speakers included Professor Sumner H. Slichter, Harvard economist Frederick Ayer, Jr., recent Republican candidate for Attorney General of Massachusetts, and

ANSIN AND GILLESPIE
Philopinionpollers to the end

Daniel B. Shirmer, Legislative Director of the Massachusetts Communist Party.

A series of three Sunday afternoon talks, given in October by Mr. Hallowell of the Public Speaking Department and Varsity Debating Coaches Hasenclever and Dodge, served to introduce novices to the rudiments of debating. Weekly Sunday meetings of the Varsity Debaters were held throughout the year.

In the year's first Varsity Debate, President Ansin and Secretary-Treasurer Gerald Gillespie defeated a Merrimack College team on the topic: "Resolved: that the non-Communist nations of the world should form a new international organization." Andover debated the affirmative. Taking the negative of the topic, "Resolved: that a sense of humor serves humanity better than a sense of propriety," Andover debaters Bob Marcus, David Slavitt, Jim Carter, and Gerry Gillespie lost the second debate to Roxbury Latin School. After an influenza quarantine forced the cancellation of the remainder of a large schedule of winter term Varsity Debates, Philo was narrowly beaten by Exeter on the same topic as the Roxbury Latin Debate. Marcus, Carter, and Morris Goodman debated the negative at Exeter, while Tony Quainton, Ted Kimball, and Bob Bachner took the affirmative at Andover.

With the awakened student interest in Philo came the nucleus of an Inter-Dormitory Debating League. On November twenty-ninth the first of these debates was held. Upholding the affirmative on the question of continuing foreign aid to Europe, Williams Hall defeated Rockwell House in the first annual Rockwell-Williams Hall debate.

Philo opinion polls became the accepted means of gaging student opinion on school subjects. A majority of the School voted "yes" to questions concerning additional student privileges and whether Andover was successful in teaching its students "the great end and real business of living." A majority voted "no" on the subject of removing the Salem Street vendors. The polls on both student privileges and the vendors were preceded by Philo-sponsored open forum discussions.

On December second, eight Philo delegates joined Headmaster Kemper in representing Andover at the Winsor Conference on Education for Public Service in Boston. In selecting its second conference delegation, Philo elected Ronnie Ansin, for the Senior Class, and Warren Hutchins, for the Upper Class, as Andover's representatives to the Columbia College Forum on Democracy in New York City, February twenty-first through twenty-fifth.

Other events included the opening of the Philo file, and extensive collection of debate material on a large number of subjects, and the Time Current Affairs Contest, conducted by Philo.

Karl Purnell has been elected to lead Philo during the 1951-1952 year with Homer Byington as Vice-President, and Juke Begien as Secretary-Treasurer.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

BALDWIN, FOOTE, INGERSOLL, STEWART, DORAN, DOAK, LARSEN, FLANDERS

Eight-in-One

This year's 8-in-1 was one of the finest ever formed on the Hill. At a number of informal get-togethers on the campus, recitals at various proms and dances, and several out-of-town concerts, the group was enthusiastically received.

The various members of the organization all sang well in solos as well as in group harmony. Ray Foote and Pete Baldwin composed a strong first tenor section, which was particularly effective when it provided the lead in such songs as How High the Moon and Sweet Georgia Brown. Next were tenors Bo Ingersoll, whose leadership of this octet was a key reason for its success, and George Stewart, who never failed to please with his solo crooning in I Don't Know Why. The baritone department was well handled by Bob Doran and Jim Doak. These two, at the core of the harmony in all the octet's fifty-odd songs, will be especially remembered: the former for his humorous ending in Ballin' the Jack, and the latter for his calm philosophizing in Coney Island Babe. For second basses, the group relied on Bob Larson for background support in songs like "Mood Indigo," and on Bill Flanders. Bill's deep voice was always an 8-in-1 feature.

Ray Foote, the only upper in this group, will lead next year's 8-in-1. It is expected that the tradition of good singing will be carried on as it was this past year.

Glee Club

The Phillips Academy Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Howes, enjoyed one of its most successful seasons. President Bill Flanders and Vice-President Sherm Hoyt were also influential in molding this group into one capable of performing well at all of its appearances. This year's repertoire included three eighteenth century English songs: The Bells in the Steeple, Which is the Properest Day to Drink and Amo, Amas, I Love a Lass, with which the Glee Club invariably began its concerts. Next usually came two songs which displayed the fine voice of soloist Howard Phipps: O Mistress Mine and Love Song. The other soloist was Bill Flanders, who was responsible for the successful Turtle Dove, the most beautiful song in the entire repertoire. Brunette and the vigorous Jolly Roger completed the list.

The Club traveled to Rogers Hall for the first concert of the year on December 2nd. In addition to the usual numbers sung by each group, the two Glee Clubs then combined effectively to sing the sacred King of Glory, King of Peace, and, in a lighter vein, Just as the Tide was Flowing. The dance which followed the concert finished an enjoyable evening.

On February 24th, the P.A. and Walnut Hill Glee Clubs gave a joint concert, the best received of the year, in George Washington Hall at Andover. Concerts with the Bancroft Girls School in Worcester on April 14th, and with The Brimmer May Girls School on May 5th completed the season's schedule.

Front Row: Fawcett, Fisher, Langmuir, Shepherd, McIntyre, Steadman, Lane, Selig
Second Row: Phipps, Milburn, Edson, Goodman, Flanders, Upton, Scott, Talcott

Choir

Under the direction of Mr. Arthur Howes and the leadership of Bill Flanders, the Chapel Choir enjoyed a successful season. Consisting of the finest voices in the Glee Club, the choir performed at nearly all of the year's services at the Cochran Chapel.

The choir particularly excelled in the anthems, sung without the congregation. Some of those it sang best were Dona Nobis Pacem, and Adoramus Te, both Latin church canons, and Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming, a Christmas carol. Two other anthems, unusually well done by the choir, were Light of Light, Enlighten Me, and Salvation Belongeth to Our God. Several of these anthems contained solo parts, which were excellently handled by Howard Phipps, Bill Flanders and Ray Foote.

The choirs of various girls' schools joined their voices with the P.A. choir on several Sundays, during the Winter and Spring terms. The Glory of the Lord, and How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place, by Bach, mixed choral numbers, were sung impressively on these occasions. Usually a dance was held on the Saturday evening preceding the service.

The first and foremost reason for the great success of this year's choir may be attributed to the interest and imagination of Mr. Howes. Given his choice, he cut down the choir to only the finest singers, sacrificing quantity to quality and attaining a much greater degree of precision in the singing. The group followed his lead, and the combination of coöperative spirit and smaller size all but eliminated the rehearsal problems that have detracted so much from the choir in the past.

The 1950-1951 choir was one of the best in the School's history. Although Mr. Howes is leaving Andover, it is hoped that the interest of the group will be sufficient to maintain a choir of similar quality, in years to come.

Marching Band

This year's seventy-two piece marching band was one of the best in history. Football spectators will long remember the revolving "A" at the Amherst game, and the repetition, by popular request, of the "drum majorette" skit at the Harvard game.

The season was climaxed by the Exeter football game where the competition was again too tough for the thirty-piece Exeter band. The P.A. musicians spelled out an eighty yard EXETER and reversed themselves to spread P.A. from sideline to sideline.

Though the emphasis was on Sousa in the fall, the spring brought a return to "marching jazz" which the band popularized last year. A smaller and more flexible baseball band presented Rampart Street, High Society, and The Saints to a capacity crowd at the Exeter game.

Band President "Stretch" Hayes, Manager Joel Davis, and Drum Major Richie Coryell deserve much praise for their imagination in instituting several new band policies. Active band participation is now rewarded by a major or minor letter, a regular "A" with a lyre. With greater facilities (an elective course in band and the new sound conditioned rehearsal room in Graves Hall), and continued student interest the band's record next year might well surpass the fine one established this year.

Concert Band

To the theme of Saint-Saens' Marche Militaire Francaise, a forty-five piece Concert Band, an all time high, introduced itself to a capacity audience in George Washington Hall. In the joint concert with the P.A. and Walnut Hill Glee Clubs, Geoff Brittin highlighted the evening with his interpretation of Purcell's Trumpet Tune. The crashing chords of The Thunderer, by Sousa, closed the band's part of the program.

An invitation for a concert and dance at Abbot led to the spring "Pops" concert of more modern composers. Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue received a tremendous ovation from the audience.

The band was successful in bringing to the student body music of a more classical nature than that usually encountered in school musical organizations. Much credit must be given to Mr. Schneider for his work in arranging and directing these performances.

"Aces"

Under Mr. Schneider's supervision, the P.A. Dance Band, better known as the Aces, was developed as a smooth-playing unit, early in the Fall term, to begin a long season of engagements. Included in this schedule were all the regular Tea Dances, plus several special functions, such as assembly and pre-movie programs, community dances and the Purchard High School Prom.

The band was led by President "Stretch" Hayes, on alto sax. Backing up "Stretch" was Roland Brown, also on alto sax. In the lower octaves were found Librarian Bob Fletcher, on tenor sax, and Fritz Coonradt, on the baritone sax. Among the brass, Geoff Brittin played trumpet, and Pete Spruance and Lloyd Farrar handled the trombone parts. Peter Smith, on piano, and newcomer Dean Groel, on drums, comprised the rhythm section. Completing the roster was Tom Regan, the band comic, on string brass.

Music Club

The 1950-51 Music Club was not as active during this school year as in previous years, but it achieved far greater success than former clubs, by virtue of its presentation of the Rudolph Serkin concert. Mr. Serkin, one of the foremost concert pianists of the day, gave a superlative performance early in June of this year. Although the Music Club has sponsored many concerts in former years, this was the first to be given by an artist of such prominence.

At the organizational meeting in the fall term, the club elected Jerry Schultz, President and Homer Byington, Secretary-Treasurer. It was also decided that the club ought to try to sponsor one good concert rather than several of mediocre quality, and that the number of officers should be reduced to two, in order to move the political flavor that the club had had in former years.

The officers re-catalogued the School's record collection, thereby permitting those students who were interested to borrow works from this collection. Recognition should be accorded to Jerry Schultz and Mr. Howes through whose efforts the Serkin concert was made possible and upon whom the success of the Music Club was so largely dependent.

Spanish Club

1950-1951 was the most successful year the Spanish Club has seen. The club had a membership of 75 students, a 50 percent increase over the previous year.

Mr. MacDougall replaced Mr. Merriam as advisor of the club. Klaus Sengelman, Bob Thompson, Ricardo Fajardo, and Luis Dubon were elected, respectively, president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

The club held its meetings once a month in Peabody House. Bob Thompson entertained the members at the first meeting of the year with an extremely interesting talk on Mexico. In later meetings, movies and slides on Latin America were shown. On one occasion, Juanita Cansino, famed interpreter of Spanish dances, performed to the great enjoyment of all members. The highlight of the year was the "Fiesta de Navidad," held at the end of the fall term, at which Abbot Academy was guest of honor. During the "Fiesta" the club's president, Klaus Sengelman, and Mrs. MacDougall charmed those present with renditions of Spanish popular songs. That same evening, the students were introduced to the traditional Latin-American "pinata." Refreshments were served to complete the program.

Now and then, supper meetings were held in the Blue Room of the Commons to which all members of the club were invited. At the end of the spring term the Spanish Club closed their varied activities by sponsoring the School's last tea dance.

French Club

With a considerable membership, the French Club this year diversified its usual sphere of offerings, under the direction of the club's officers, Walter Goffart, President; Frank Davenport, Vice-President; and Tony Quainton, Secretary.

During the fall term, speakers from the French Department were presented weekly. Among them were Dr. Grew who spoke on France's foreign policy, and Mr. Bernard who gave a comparison of French and American secondary school life. Patrick Nollet, on exchange from France, spoke to an interested audience about night life in his home town, Paris. The club's faculty adviser, Mr. Rolland, obtained a group of Kodachrome slides of a trip to France, and Davenport's film of a similar journey was shown. During the winter, the club subscribed to a program by which it would obtain either a film or a slide showing every other week. The series was begun with a movie on a famous French ceramics maker showing various aspects of his work. Several other interesting films were shown.

However, the club's aim to promote the speaking of French was not really achieved. Perhaps the literary atmosphere of the French Room with its forbidding table and hard chairs is not conducive to such conversation. Yet, with the prospect of further audio-visual material and perhaps a change of locale for meetings, the club's future seems assured.

A different atmosphere might attract more members

Informal meetings helped their German

German Club

Unlike former years, this year's German Club consisted only of a group of students of the language, who met together to hear and speak German and learn about Germany. There was no formal organization of officers.

On Sundays, after supper, the group, which fluctuated in size, assembled in Paul Revere North, under Dr. Hasenclever's leadership, where they joined in singing folksongs ranging from modern to 16th century. Then Dr. Hasenclever's record library was drawn upon for German music, from plain songs to Kurt Weill's Dreigroschenoper. Slides were shown and photos passed around to acquaint members with the German scene.

Though unsuccessful in their attempts to get a movie last year, this winter, through the auspices of the Film Society, the club sponsored the showing of M, a psychological masterpiece, about a man-hunt in a German city.

The club's system of meeting in completely informal surroundings can well serve as an example to the other language clubs. If the aim of the organization is to promote the understanding and speaking of that particular tongue, there can be no better way than under such conditions.

They spoke no Greek

Greek Clique

Andover has seen many innovations this year, and among them is a new Greek Club. Dr. Alston H. Chase, instructor in Greek at Andover, heard the pleas of several of his students for such a club. Dr. Chase gave his approval and consented to be the Faculty Advisor. The club was named the Greek Clique. Its officers are George Van Angelis, President; George S. B. Morgan, Vice-President; and F. Courtlandt R. Gilmour, Secretary. The other members are Greek students.

Because of its late birth, the clique's functions have been seriously limited. It was their intention to produce one of Aristophanes' comedies, The Birds, during the spring term. Due to various difficulties, this was impossible and the production was cancelled.

Hopes for lecturers are at present still high, but a large problem which the club has had to face was that of finances. An appropriation for the club has been arranged for next year, but this year the club has had to subsist on lend lease and private means. Unlike other language clubs at P.A., the Greek Clique does not presume to practice speaking Greek, but rather hopes that something may be learned of ancient customs and cultures, a field unknown to the average P.A. student.

Science Club

The Science Club was roughly divided into three groups, the experimentors, the biologists, and the mechanics. The latter, under the foremanship of S. W. Clark, did work on Bromberg's outboard motor. An airplane motor was assembled down to the most minute parts, while an auto motor was stripped down to the barest essentials.

In the Biology Department Blair Behringer gave a lecture to the club on his experiments last summer at the Cold Spring Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Me. His project consisted of upsetting the hormone balance of some forty mice as part of the cancer research program. Blair also worked on linear acceleration and built a Wilson cloud chamber.

Doug McCole worked on the creaming of latex with ammonium alginate in order to find the molecular weight distribution. This process involved math, physics, and required the use of a constant temperature bath. Through these experiments Doug became a Westinghouse Science Talent Search finalist, winning a trip to Washington and a scholarship.

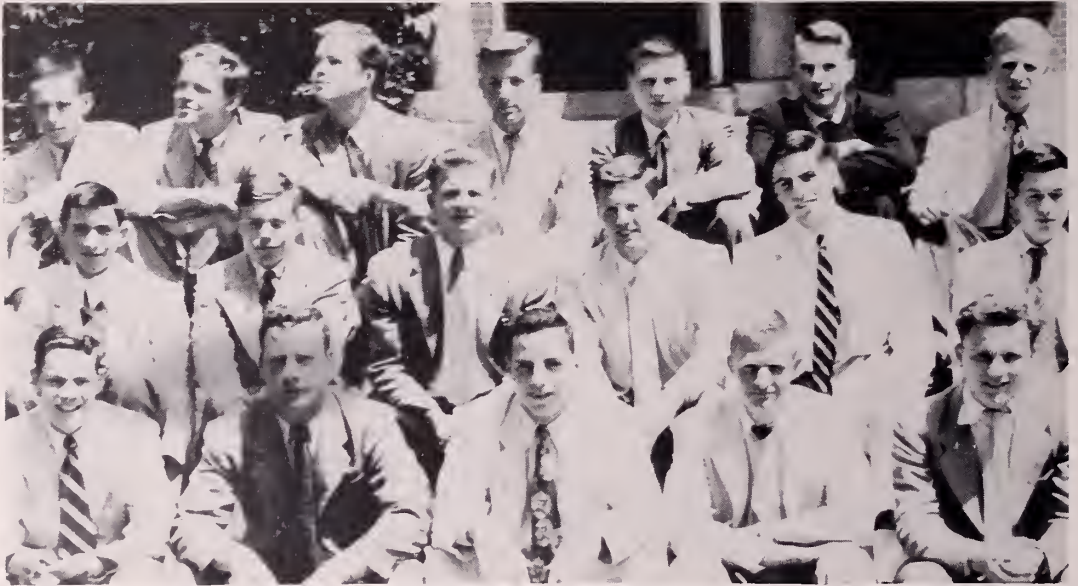

Other experimenters tried to obtain germanium from fly ash collected from the stack at the power plant, experimented with the melting points of various metals, did work with lead and magnesium and collected mineral specimens from the gym excavation.

This year's Sailing Club, under the direction of Commodore Findlay, Vice-Commodore Payne, Treasurer Rider, and Secretary Hoyt, compiled an excellent record of six wins, one defeat, and one tie. The team was undefeated on its home waters, Lake Chickikiwick. However, the club was not exclusively a racing organization as its thirty-five members enjoyed many fine pleasure sails on Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday afternoons.

Especially active in the racing aspect of the club, were the four officers, Bob Markert, next year's Commodore; Rog Gilbert, and Jocko Denison. All these boys compiled fine racing records, with Markert and Gilbert tied for first in point average and Findlay close behind. Bill Stone also excelled in the Proctor meet.

A team composed of Findlay as skipper, Sherm Hoyt, Bob Markert, Ken Rider, and Howie Payne will travel to Annapolis shortly after the close of school for the Sixteenth Annual Interscholastic Racing Competition.

Outing Club

This year, the Outing Club, led by President Pete Baldwin and Treasurer Stu Sanders, sponsored more trips than ever before. Much credit for the full program should be given to faculty adviser, Mr. Sanborn, for generously lending so much of his time and equipment.

The Outing Club during the past year, enjoyed its most successful season to date. This was mostly due to the great enthusiasm for the club which has been shown, especially by the Upper Middle Class. The club has 125 members, which is just about as many as it can operate with efficiently.

The club has utilized nearly every open weekend for a trip of some sort. During the fall term there was a lobster feed at Mr. Sanborn's cabin in Kennebunkport, Maine, a weekend at Mount Moat, in North Conway, New Hampshire and a cruise around Boston Harbor with Edward R. Snow, the famous author and lecturer. There were also two overnight camping trips along the Shawsheen River.

Lack of snow hindered the club slightly during the winter term; two ski trips to Conway had to be canceled. However, the club was able to take two others, one of which was timed perfectly with good skiing weather. There was also an ice fishing trip to Foster's Pond.

So far this spring, the club has held one lobster feed at Kennebunkport and an overnight cookout on the Shawsheen. Two other cookouts were held, as well as the last big trip of the year, an excursion to Mount Chocorua.

The club elected Stu Sanders, President, and Herb Young as officers for next year. Bob Markert, Tony Holt, and Ed Hurley were elected directors.

Paul Revere Press

The Paul Revere Press began its year's activities by printing the weekly church programs, and with the fall term progressing, the Press staff members found themselves swamped with increasing requests for numerous spur-of-the-moment jobs. The staff was extremely short-handed, but, nevertheless, it managed to keep its head above water during the entire year.

Among the jobs turned out by the Press in the fall term were: multicolored posters for various organizations; stationery for students; membership cards for many campus groups; official jobs for the school; and programs for the Special Christmas Vesper Service. During the winter and spring terms, the Press was deeply involved in the work for the Senior and Junior Proms, including invitations, programs of activities, tickets, and dance programs. Reaching its peak in the last two terms, the Press turned out Tea Dance tickets, programs for various social events, contests and scores of odd jobs, such as letterheads and calling cards.

The Press staff was headed this year by Doug Adkins, assisted by Charlie Flather and Dave Jones; Mr. Gordon Bensley acted as Faculty advisor, helping the Press weather a very busy year.

Radio Club

Although this year's Radio Club was unable to get "out into the ether," on station WISW, the club's set, in the shack in back of Samuel Phillips Hall, other activities held the members' interests. The soldering irons were running more than ever, in the basement shop of Morse Hall. The shop acquired many new pieces of equipment, useful for the building and repairing of any and all types of radio and amplifier sets. Negotiations with the Infirmary made it possible to obtain several old broadcast band sets for spare parts.

The repairing of sets was perhaps the most popular activity this year. However, the members' interests extended into various other fields. One member was contemplating the possible construction of a "Tesla Coil," an electronic device capable of producing extremely high frequency alternating current which, when used in certain ways, produces many spectacular effects. Radio control of models was also touched upon this year, and this type of work will be carried on next year.

Under the direction of President Andy Parssinen and Mr. Barss, the Radio Club has had a successful year. With further technical work and possible broadcasting, next year should be equally successful.

Stamp Club

Under the guidance of Messrs. Morgan and Weaver, the Stamp Club has completed another highly successful season. Each Sunday evening the twelve members convened in the French Room of the library to trade or exhibit stamps and to listen to guest speakers explain their experiences in the Philatelic fields.

The first guest speaker of the year was Mr. Henry Dolan of the Andover Post Office, who gave a talk about the origin and growth of the department and then answered questions about the various activities of the post office. Following this, Miss Carroll Rhoades displayed her excellent collection of British Colonial stamps, giving short histories and interesting sidelights, as she went along.

An innovation this year was the introduction of prize contests to test the members' knowledge of their hobby and their ability to prepare artfully arranged display sheets. Several enjoyable evenings were spent in vying for these awards.

The big event in the Club's activities took place on the twenty-fifth of May, at which time the annual steak dinner toward which all dues go, was held at Howard Johnson's.

Mechanics Club

The Mechanics Club, previously a branch of the Science Club, established itself as a separate organization on the Hill this year.

The club concerned itself principally with the repair of old engines it obtained. Projects included the quite general overhauling of Ford-Chrysler engines. The Chrysler engine is to be the power plant of a proposed ski tow to be built on Prospect Hill. Outboard motors belonging to various club members were also repaired and put into shape for the coming season.

Future aeronautical engineers had a field day in the re-assembling of a V-12 type Range aircraft engine. This engine, valued at over ten thousand dollars, was purchased new by the club as war surplus for only the nominal charges of shipping from the factory to the club shop in Morse Hall. The engine is now in running condition, except for a missing timer disc which was not sent with the other parts and which the club could not locate.

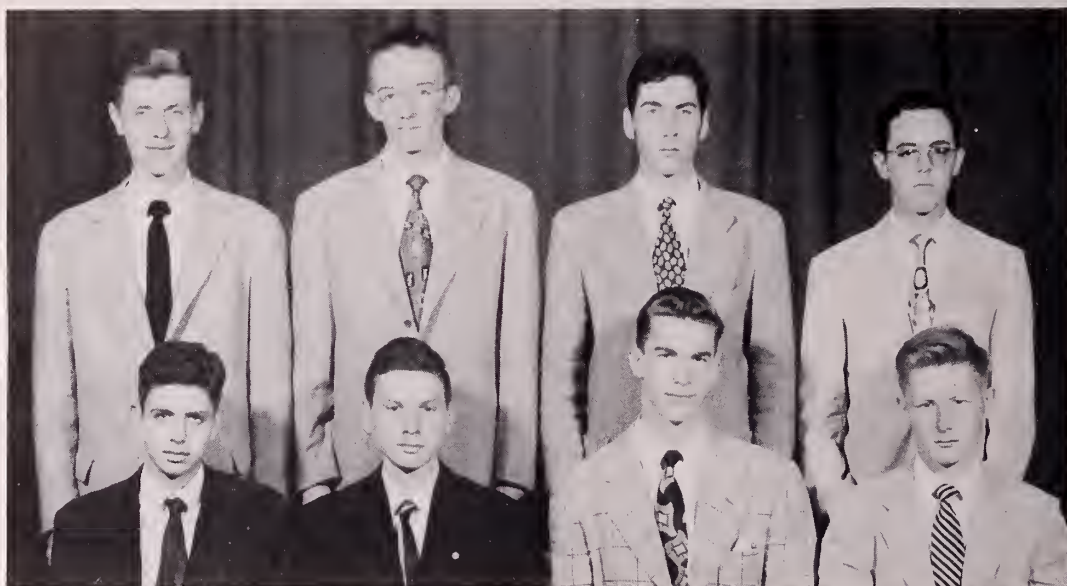

Not all these projects were completed in the course of the school year. The club's work for next year will center around the aircraft engine and the ski tow power assembly. The ski tow, if completed, would be a particularly valuable addition to the school's athletic plant.

Rifle Team

*Back Row: Leete, Howell, Cushman, Hibard

1951 saw the Rifle Club become the second largest organization on the P.A. campus. Its 105 members fired four nights a week during the winter season, and collected 60 National Rifle Association medals and awards.

A team composed of the top ten marksmen fired five matches, accounting for one win and a third place in the annual New England Prep School Rifle Championships. Against a crack Tabor Academy squad, in the opening meet of the season, the team was badly beaten; however, by the Interscholastics, held here over the prom weekend, they had improved enough to take third place only 27 points behind Tabor's winning total. On February 28th, the team journeyed to Exeter, where they scored 883 points to place second behind the hosts' 926. Charlie King scored a scorching 187 to lead the individual shooting. In addition, P.A.'s sharpshooters split a postal series, downing Belmont Hill and losing to Gloucester High R.O.T.C., and earned medals plus free ammunition by firing a four position Army Qualification Course.

During the year, Hebard and King earned Distinguished Rifleman Awards, and Leete, Cushman and Abrahams gained the rank of Expert Rifleman.

Officers of the organization were John Hebard, President; Charlie King, Vice-President; Bob Leete, Secretary; Charlie Cushman, Treasurer; and Steve Quint, Executive Officer. Mr. Donald Merriam, aided by Messrs. Peck and MacDougall, devoted a great deal of time and effort as the club's advisor to making the season a success.

the fiercest rivalries in United States schoolboy athletics is between historic, old Phillips Andover and Phillips Exeter. This rivalry is most apparent in football. 1950's game, the renewal of this clash, was no exception. It before the game an airplane swooped low over the Andover and dropped leaflets warning that the New Hampshire team or blood. Andover spirit was also high. An Exonian was effigy at a rally held the night before the game. The game showed the Andover supporters to be fair weather the first quarter, the Blue rolled up a brief lead, and the wild (above, left). But when Andover's co-captains were from the game by injuries, and Exeter took the lead, the crowd quickly accepted the idea of defeat and kept only an interest in the game. # COMMONS IS ACTIVITY CENTER

Is meeting place for various organizations;
New proctor system disapproved by students

On the south end of Flagstaff Court stands the building that is actually the center of student life. In a school as large as Andover, it is rare that the student body has a chance to come together socially as a group. Of these occasions, the most frequent is at mealtimes. Knowing this, the Administration has wisely taken advantage of the gatherings to further the great end and real business of running the school. It is there that the various student government organizations met, both Council and Congress, until recently, in yet another Administrational move, the Council met at Phelps House. Various other organizations held their meetings, and in the dim, smoke-filled Rose and Blue rooms, many a wild-eyed liberal discussed weighty problems with an audience of youth. These too, were moved away, in this case to Graham House. The center of interest in the Commons is now the gleaming beaverboard message board with the heading "Student Activities." By this board, the inquisitive can find out if the Gauls are playing Romans today, if the Birdbanders are meeting, where to go to Pot Pourri, and many other bits of information.

One aspect of Andover life seldom seen by the average student is the preparation of food in the basement of the Commons. It is over by balding, tight-lipped, cigar-smoking Bob Leete, the various operations seem to the casual visitor more part of a factory than a school. As in a factory, the various operations are completely subdivided with their products finally coming together upstairs in the assembly line of the student's tray. There are separate chefs for every food; meat, vegetable, baked food, dessert, and salad. The quantities of foods used are gigantic. Over half a million rolls per year are steaming out of the huge bake ovens.

BAKE OVENS. COMMONS BAKERY DEPARTMENT PRODUCES OVER HALF MILLION ROLLS PER YEAR FOR USE IN FIVE DINING HALLS.

ACTIVITIES BULLETIN board is scanned by students in Commons Lobby at noon.

Commons was one of the first victims of the efficiency program swept Andover Hill in the period of the last decade. The old style of dining was removed to make room for a modern cafeteria. Man-hours saved have totaled hundreds of thousands. Lack of the personal touch that was provided in the served meals also created disciplinary problems. Mealtime was removed from the family niche and brought down to what was termed "highly boisterous" levels. Thus, within the last year, a situation was created that saw faculty members acting as proctors in the Commons of the lower three classes. The senior class was forced to develop a system of proctoring by Congress and Council members. At the end, the proctors had been given a fair testing period. Students were against them.

each school year the usually staid campus of Phillips Academy is invaded by hordes of femininity. During these two weekends, one in the fall, the other in the spring, the atmosphere is somewhat akin to a college houseparty. The girls arrive on Friday afternoon, are met off by their escorts to a reception given by the headmaster, and then in the Commons at a formal dinner that evening, and are taken to the prom itself that night. They are greeted at the Gymnasium, scene of the festivities, by a rather garish collection of streamers and bunting that poorly attempt to hide the battle scars of the building. It is not surprising that they sometimes have the mistaken idea that they are in the center ring of a three ring circus.

In the morning the affair disintegrates to small groups of girls drifting off to the various dormitories that house the girls. The morning frequently includes an inspection of Rabbitts Pond and other moon-lit spots of interest. Breakfast is served at nine for those willing to arise and go to the Commons. On Saturday afternoon girls are taken to the various athletic contests, and the prom is finally over at four. Those who care to remain for the evening pictures are permitted to stay on.

One of the highlights of any Andover prom is the lecture given in the morning before the occasion by Steve Whitney, instructor in French and chairman of the Faculty Social Functions Committee. Besides making out such points as not having the girl carry her own suitcase, Mr. Whitney, an Emily Post at heart, advises against ogling the girls from vantage points on Flagstaff Court and leaving amorous letters pinned to their window shades.

Drs. Law, O'Shea bring increased efficiency;

Athletic excuses no longer easy way out of sports

A new regime has established itself in the Isham Infirmary this year with the addition of Dr. Alexander Graham School Physician. Dr. Law and Associate, Dr. James Arthur O'Shea, have instituted an efficiency heretofore unknown in the infirmary. No longer is it possible to consummate the afternoon's athletic activities in five minutes. Now athletes are allowed to bathe their bodies in infra-red rays and as often as they see fit. interest in practically everything that has happened on the hill this year, and have is also a poet of sorts, and has created posters advising that "Small lacerations/ Little

So far the armies of unalterable Law have met with opposition only from a few minority groups: those who find it biologically unsound to wait forty minutes to get tendons should absorb twice as many infrared quanta, and those who deery the absence of last year's experimenters because they enjoyed lifting weights and inflating vinyl plastic bags. Otherwise Andover seems to have succumbed amenably to Efficiency in its medical ranks.

School make both ends meet

For some purists who believe that a scholastic institution Academy is run wholly by educators and the various and details are taken care of by the Spirit of Learning or interested deity. George Washington Hall, a three story is brick and mortar proof that this is not so. The business of the school involves a string of executives and a whole and maintenance personnel.

At the Academy's financial staff besides the Headmaster and Alumni Secretary. To Hopper and his large staff is management of the tremendous endowment fund, and of such projects as the $1,125,000 War Memorial Gymnasium under construction, besides the various day to day matters that may come up.

WORTH DEMONSTRATED OVER THE YEARS

The Kohler mark on each plumbing fixture and fitting is your warrant for confidence.

The Cosmopolitan Bench Bath affords a useful seat, a slope end for comfortable bathing, and a flat, safe bottom. The lustrous Kohler enamel is fused to a base of non-flexing iron, cast for rigidity. The Jamestown vitreous china lavatory, with the Centra mixer and Synchro mechanical drain, has a large basin and ample shelf space. Kohler chromium-plated brass fittings are long lasting, efficient, made expressly for the fixtures they serve. Consult your Kohler dealer on selections for bathroom, washroom, kitchen, and laundry.
